EFFORT TO ABOLISH TAX EQUALIZATION CAUSES HOT DEBATE

Senator Stovall Leads Fight Against Law Before Joint Committee, While Judge John C. Hart Defends It.

HART RAPS CONDITIONS IN STOVALL'S COUNTY

When Senator Attacks Constitutionality of Act, Commissioner Suggests There Is Open Place on Supreme Bench.

The fight upon the tax equalization act repeal bill, which occupied a spectacular place in the legislative program of yesterday, will reach a decisive stage this morning, when at 9 o'clock the finance committee of the senate meets to make up its recommendation upon the Stovall bill, and the motion of Mr. Sheppard, of Sumter, to reconsider the action of the house yesterday in declining to set the Bale bill as a special continuing order comes up in the house. While the fight will be strong the chances seemed yesterday that the repeal movement will meet with defeat.

The action in the senate committee yesterday morning follows the joint committee meeting of the finance committee of the senate and the ways and means committee of the house Thursday afternoon, when the committee members heard Dr. A. S. Stovall, of Elbert county, senator from the thirty-first district, urging the repeal of the tax act, and Judge John C. Hart, state tax commissioner, favoring the retention of the act upon the statute books and the strengthening of the act.

Debate, at Times, Heated.

The debate between Judge Hart and Senator Stovall was extremely heated and at times contained sharp personal thrusts. Judge Hart alleged that, although Senator Stovall declared that he favored the equalization, he had been the bitterest enemy that this idea had ever had in Georgia; he resented sharply the senator's charges that the act was a failure, and made a scathing expose of the alleged slack administration of the act in Senator Stovall's county, Elbert, as shown by "the latest news from Elbert," this being a report from the Elbert board of tax assessors.

Senator Stovall in turn resented Judge Hart's allegations of politics having been injected into the opposition to the tax act, and there was a tense situation for a moment when, after Senator Stovall had disagreed with the ruling of the United States supreme court upon a point of constitutionality, Judge Hart suggested that there is now an opening upon the supreme court bench. Senator Stovall objected to being "suggested for the place," and Judge Hart declared that the people of Georgia would hold him up in contempt if he had made such a suggestion.

There was a further sensation when a tax assessor from Brooks county appeared before the joint meeting and declared that one of the representatives from Brooks county in the present legislature had turned in $150,000 worth of timber lands at $35,000, and that when the board raised the assessment to $70,000 the owner appealed, and that the board expected this owner to object to payment upon the alleged real value of his property as long as the assessment might be made.

Alleges "Tax-Dodging."

A tax assessor also appeared from Meriwether county and alleged attempts at tax-dodging on the part of a former member of the house from that county.

The advocates of the repeal attempted a coup near the close of the hearing by introducing Mrs. W. H. Felton, of Hall county, who stated that she had been compelled to pay taxes upon a valuation of her land at $20 per acre, while her neighbors got off with $6 and $10 per acre.

That the fight upon the repeal bill will be to the bitter end is apparent, but present indications seem to be that the effort will fail. Indications in the committee Thursday afternoon were that the repeal bill of Senator Stovall will receive an adverse recommendation, as did the Bale bill before the house committee. It is doubtful if the repeal forces in the house will be able to force the house bill to an immediate place on the calendar, and, if the senate bill should reach the floor of the senate the chances are largely that the bill will there be defeated.

Fight on Senate Bill.

The fight upon the senate bill began with the joint hearing Thursday afternoon.

Dr. Stovall, author of the senate repeal bill, stated that he is in favor of a bill which will equalize the taxes of the state, but that he stands unalterably opposed to allowing tax equalization bill to stay upon the statute books; that he is not in favor of strengthening the present bill; that the old tax law before the present bill suits him all right, and that he has no remedy for any inequality that may exist in the matter of taxation; that he believes the people of his county favor a repeal of the law and that, in his campaign, he has preached the repeal of the bill to them.

In opening his speech, Senator Stovall quoted from the message of former Governor John M. Slaton, advocating the passage of the tax equalization act to the effect that the state had in 1913 a deficit of $1,089,000; that the teachers were going without pay and that the veterans were dying without receiving their pensions. Senator Stovall stated that he had failed to find justification for such a statement and that the first recent deficit in the state's finances had come since the enactment of the tax equalization act, and that he had frequently heard that the state treasury was "busted," but that he had not verified this.

Appropriations Increase.

In answer to a question from Mr. Cooper, of Ware, Senator Stovall ad-

Motor Boats Hunt Man-Eating Sharks Off Jersey Coast

Presence of Large Schools of Monsters Along Coast Brings Warning From the Bureau of Fisheries.

New York, July 13.—Armed shark hunters in motor boats patrolled the New York and New Jersey coasts today while others lined the beaches in a concerted effort to exterminate the man-eaters which have moved north from their customary haunts, apparently in large numbers. The village authorities of Matawan, N. J., offered a reward of $100 for every shark brought in dead or alive.

The belief that a single shark was responsible for the killing of four swimmers in New Jersey waters within the past two weeks, two of them yesterday in Matawan creek, a shallow inlet 16 miles from the open sea, has been dispelled by persons who actually have seen a half dozen or more of the monsters.

One theory is that sharks which formerly fed on refuse thrown overboard from the many ocean steamships that plied before the war began, now have become ravenous. Even those not ordinarily classed as man-eaters, it is said, probably have been driven by starvation to lurk in the waters of the Atlantic coast, warm at this season, and attack human beings.

Three of the huge fishes were seen today in Matawan creek and are believed to be bottled up there. Nets have been stretched under a bridge about a mile and a half from the mouth of the inlet to prevent egress.

A British sloop arriving from Bermuda was reported tonight to have killed a score of sharks during the voyage, one of them off the New Jersey coast.

Bathers in Terror.

Terror has seized the multitudes who have bathed at beaches along the New York and New Jersey coasts and comparatively few persons now venture into the water. At Asbury Park and other New Jersey resorts wire nets have been strung around the bathing areas.

Little hope is entertained for the recovery of the body of 12-year-old Lester Stillwell, the other victim of the Matawan creek tragedy. It is believed that he was devoured by the shark, as persistent dragging of the inlet and dynamiting of the waters have failed to bring up the body.

Many conflicting reports were received here during the day from various points along the New York and New Jersey coasts regarding the killing of sharks, but only one appears to have had any foundation in fact. This was the news brought in by Anthony Lundy, captain of a fishing boat, who said his party of New York fishermen had clubbed to death a nine-foot shark, weighing 450 pounds, while cruising yesterday at Elberson, N. J.

A fisherman reported tonight that he had vainly tried to kill with an oar a seven-foot shark which became entangled in his nets. He said the fish tried to strike his boat.

Warning Is Issued.

Washington, July 13.—Indications that there may be large schools of sharks in unaccustomed waters along the Atlantic coast brought a warning from the bureau of fisheries today, and

BOLT LAYS CADDIE DEAD BEFORE FEET OF SOCIETY WOMEN

New York, July 13.—More than a score of society women, including Mrs. Oscar Lewisohn, formerly Edna May, the actress, narrowly escaped death from lightning on the grounds of a golf course at Great Neck, L. I., late today, when Felix Jacobus, a caddy, was struck and killed within a few feet of them. As the body of the caddy was carried from the field all women in the party fell on their knees and prayed.

The tragedy occurred while Mrs. Lewisohn and Mrs. Charles H. Goddard, wife of the president of the club, were playing an exciting game, when Jacobus, holding the flag, was hit and fell dead in front of them.

Three other persons were killed by lightning.

CONGRESS HALTED AS MEMBERS FEAST ON GEORGIA MELONS

Washington, July 13.—The ponderous wheels of legislation were halted momentarily in the house this afternoon while Representative Adamson, of Georgia, announced the arrival of a shipment of watermelons from his home state and invited the members to a melon feast in the interstate commerce commission room. Members of both houses, their wives and a number of government officials were guests of Mr. Adamson at the feast.

Claim Positive Proof Kaiser and Kronprinz Were Sunk Off Jutland

Washington, July 13.—An admiralty cablegram to the British embassy here says positive proof has been found that the two great German dreadnaughts, Kaiser and Kronprinz, were sunk by torpedoes during the battle of Jutland, and that they now have been added to the official British list of German ships destroyed.

The Kaiser was of 24,700 tons displacement, and carried ten 12-inch, fifty caliber guns. The Kronprinz carried ten 12-inch 45 caliber guns and displaced 25,575 tons.

ALLIES ARE PAYING BIG PRICE FOR DRIVE

London, July 13.—The heavy price that the allies are paying for their success on the western front is shown in the British casualty list issued in London tonight. These lists give the names of 425 officers, 99 of whom were killed.

The last casualty list of British officers issued for the Somme sector was published on July 11. It contained 73 names.

GEORGIA HIGHWAY COMMISSION BILL MEETS WITH FAVOR

Will Be Reported to House Monday by Representative Turner as Substitute for Committee Measure.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION OF FIVE IS PROVIDED

Board Will Consist of Two Appointees of Governor, Prison Board Chairman and Two Professors of Engineering.

Differing in only a few minor respects from the bill drafted by the highway commission committee of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce and approved by the legislative committee of the State Association of County Commissioners of Georgia, a bill providing for the creation of a state highway commission was yesterday approved by the public highways committee of the house of representatives.

The bill will be reported to the house next Monday by Morton Turner, chairman of the committee, as a committee substitute for the bill which is set for that day, and which is the committee substitute adopted last year for the Andrews and other bills which went before the committee.

Turner Leads Fight.

Representative Turner, of Quitman, was selected several months ago to lead the fight in behalf of such a measure. After weeks of diligent work and innumerable conferences he opened the committee meeting Thursday with the support of all interests, including the state prison commission, back of him. He will continue in active charge of the measure in the house.

The bill, as it will be reported to the house by Mr. Turner, being a substitute for a bill already on the calendar, will take the position of the prior bill, and the chances for its coming to an early vote—and, its friends say, a favorable one—are bright.

The measure provides for the creation of a commission of five men; two to be citizens appointed by the governor, the chairman of the prison commission, and the professors of engineering of the state university and of the Georgia School of Technology. One of the two men appointed by the governor shall be chosen chairman of the board.

Features of Measure.

Additional outstanding features are: That the commissioners shall draw no salary, but shall receive $10 a day when actually in the service of the commission in attending to the duties of the commission, total payment not to exceed $400 each per year; the commission shall appoint a chief engineer at a salary not to exceed $400 per month; it shall have turned over to it 15 per cent of the white convicts of the state by the prison commission to be used as a highway gang or gangs; each county must agree to work proposed by the highway commission in its county, and must agree to furnish the highway gangs while in their county, with food, fuel and necessary road materials, before the state highway gang may do any work in the county; the commission shall furnish to the counties of the state, on request, surveys, maps, specifications and full details and assistance in regard to road building in each county, free of expense to the county; the present automobile tax shall be turned over to the highway commission and used in road building and be collected by the highway commission for this purpose; and the commission is authorized to receive money from the United States government to be expended on roads in Georgia as may be directed or required by the government.

History of Legislation.

In a formal address before the committee Charles L. Davis, of Warm Springs, one of the champions of the Georgia chamber bill, briefly recited the history of the proposed legislation from the time of its proposal at the annual meeting of State Association of County Commissioners, held in the Kimball house last November, when a committee was appointed to draw up a bill, of which the pending one is the outgrowth.

"Georgia," he said, "is spending in cash and its equivalent something like $4,000,000 a year on roads and road-building and we think that the time has arrived when we need a distinct and separate board or commission to handle this work, see to the expenditure of this money, in order for the state to realize the fullest possible results.

"I do not," he continued, "favor any bill that would in any manner interfere, however, with the control of the prison commission over the convicts of Georgia, but I do think that the highway commission should be separate and distinct and independent from any other state department."

T. E. Patterson, of the prison commission, offered three suggestions as amendments to the bill.

"First," he said, "I think the state geologist ought to be a member of the highway commission, because his knowledge of soils, rock, etc., would be of inestimable value. And I think the secretary of state, because of his knowledge of and connection with the automobiles paying license fees in to the highway fund, would be a valuable member.

"Second, I want to see a provision put in which would give the commission authority to make contracts and enter into agreements with the federal government, such as might become necessary to make the operation of the law fully effective.

"Third, I would like to see incorporated in the bill a provision under which it would be left to the commission to agree with county boards as to what percentage of the total cost of the building of a road through or into their respective counties the counties should pay. Without this, I fear the commission would be hampered in the construction of roads of length, because a county which would contain only a few miles of such road might feel that it were not being proportionately benefited with the other counties through which the road would pass and refuse to pay its proportion of the cost. In such a case I think the commission should have authority to negotiate with the county and reach an equitable agreement as to the part the county should pay, and that would make the law, in my judgment, much more effective."

Patterson's Views.

Concluding his remarks, Commissioner Patterson said:

"I believe the system as worked out in this bill should and will not meet with objection from anybody or any county. I believe it would not interfere with the larger counties, as it relates to the employment of convict la-

Zeppelin Freighters Coming, Predicts Deutschland's Captain

Baltimore, July 13.—Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, spent an hour aboard the German submarine merchantman Deutschland today. He thoroughly inspected the vessel, had the intricate machinery and instruments explained to him and personally congratulated Captain Koenig upon bringing the craft safely to America through waters infested with hostile war craft.

Two attaches of the German embassy, the German and Austrian consuls in Baltimore, and Mayor Preston accompanied the ambassador. The intense heat inside the hull of the submersible, generated by the sun's rays beating upon the deck and sides prevented the party from remaining aboard longer than an hour.

The ambassador informed Captain Koenig that he would send to him before the Deutschland starts on her return voyage several packets of official papers which he desires to have delivered to the Berlin foreign office. Some of these documents embassy officials have been reluctant to trust in the regular mails because it was considered likely they would fall into the hands of British censors.

Zeppelins to Carry Freight.

City officials who visited the submarine today quoted Captain Koenig as saying that Zeppelin airship freighters are being built in Germany for trans-Atlantic service.

"To you," Captain Koenig was quoted as saying, "the trip of the Deutschland is a great achievement. You must not be too enthusiastic over it, for a bigger surprise is coming. A great Zeppelin airship, or may be I should say airships, are being built in Germany. In the not distant future one or more of them will sail through the air to the United States. Just as sure as the Deutschland came to America, so will the Zeppelins come."

The Deutschland, having discharged her cargo, is undergoing some minor repairs by members of the crew. Their task seemed to have been completed tonight, and the work of loading the return cargo, consisting principally of crude rubber and nickel, is expected to begin tomorrow or next day. Before the return cargo is placed aboard the vessel it will be carefully inspected.

Von Bernstorff Enthusiastic.

The ambassador was enthusiastic as he emerged from the Deutschland's conning tower.

"It is a wonderful boat, and, with as courageous a crew as ever sailed the sea, has made a wonderful voyage," said he. "I climbed up and down every hatchway, looked into every compartment and had my first experience with a periscope.

"Captain Koenig did not tell me just when he expects to leave for Germany, but I presume it will be soon after he has his return cargo aboard. He has his orders from Berlin. His craft is a

HURRICANE HEADED FOR GEORGIA COAST

Shipping Is Under Heavy Lash — Skyrockets Warn Incoming Craft—Seashore Pleasure Seekers Make for Safety.

Savannah, Ga., July 13.—With hurricane warnings displayed by the local weather bureau and a stiff northeast gale blowing off the coast, all shipping in the harbor early tonight took precautions to guard against damage from the heavy blow which is expected to reach here before morning.

At Tybee island, a summer resort 18 miles from here on the coast, where there are hundreds of cottages of flimsy construction, many people became alarmed early tonight when the high wind began to drive the sea shoreward, and most of them came to the city.

Off Tybee bar the gale this afternoon caused the Merchants and Miners' Transportation company's steamer Somerset, from Jacksonville for Baltimore, via Savannah, to anchor three hours before she could enter the river, and drove the pilot boat Eclipse ashore near the quarantine station. The Eclipse was said to be badly damaged and later was towed into the harbor. The tug Paulsen will take her station at the mouth of the river tomorrow. All vessels in the harbor have put out extra hawsers and anchors.

Considerable alarm was aroused in the city tonight when the weather bureau began firing rockets from the roof of one of the tallest buildings to warn ships off the coast. Officials of the bureau also sent requests to Beaufort and Georgetown, S. C., that rockets be sent up at those places at brief intervals.

Brunswick reported a northeast gale blowing there early tonight, but so far no damage has been done at that port.

Late trains from Tybee tonight came over tracks which were covered with water nearly a foot deep for a stretch of several miles.

According to passengers on the last train from Tybee tonight, a negro who was fishing from a skiff off Tybee this afternoon was carried out to sea by the wind, his boat capsized and the man drowned. Two men and two young women, whose rowboat capsized in Tybee inlet, were rescued and brought safely to shore.

It was believed at midnight that the gale off Tybee was subsiding, and that the worst part of the storm would not hit Savannah. A large portion of Tybee island is inundated, but so far very little damage has been done.

Bureau Posts Warnings.

Washington, July 13.—Hurricane warnings for the Atlantic coast from Tybee Island to Georgetown, S. C., were issued tonight at 7 o'clock by the weather bureau. It was announced that there was a storm off the South Atlantic coast with increasing and northerly hurricane wind, probably tonight.

Sea High at Charleston.

Charleston, S. C., July 13.—At 11:30 o'clock tonight Charleston was facing a hurricane, having been warned by the weather bureau at 7 o'clock of the probable approach of a tropical storm. Regular communication with Sullivan's island, a popular summer resort, having failed, the buoy tender Cypress, of the United States lighthouse department, was sent over and brought back 450 persons who preferred to spend the night in town.

During the night great waves were dashing over the seawalls of East Battery, South Battery and the Battery boulevards, roadways in those sections being flooded. The smother of spume soaked houses in the immediate neighborhood. The steamship Lenape, due to leave in the afternoon for Jacksonville, is still at her dock. The tug Vigilant and two barges, which reported to have broken from her, are harbor-bound. Along the water front and in sections where a storm tide is apt to cause damage, active efforts were made to protect land floating property.

HUNGRY N. Y. MILITIAMEN RAID CLEVELAND STORES

Cleveland Ohio, July 13.—Seven hundred militiamen from New York, passing through Cleveland, left their train this afternoon at a local depot and raided nearby stores and commission houses, taking food and merchandise and destroying what they did not carry away.

Riot calls were turned in and squads of patrolmen answered in emergency patrols.

The soldiers were driven back to the train by a squad of twenty armed men ordered out by Major T. J. Moynahan, commanding the train. Some of the soldiers said they had not eaten in 36 hours.

4 CHILDREN DROWN IN ALAPAHA RIVER

Three Die at Stockton Before Eyes of Their Mother. Pafford Boy Drowns at Milltown.

Valdosta, Ga., July 13.—(Special.)—While swimming in the Alapaha river near Milltown in company with five other young men, Bennie Pafford, aged 18, the second son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Pafford, of Milltown, was drowned this afternoon about 4 o'clock. The body had not been recovered at 7 o'clock tonight.

The young man jumped in the river at the railroad bridge, intending to swim down stream to the steel bridge, and was swept on by to his death. Two others, Donald Darsey and Cranford Peters, missed their hold, but they were rescued by young Lawson Patten, who was with them. At the point of the drowning the river is very deep and swift on account of heavy rains, and persons searching for the body were having great difficulty.

Mr. Pafford, who is mayor of Milltown, and was in the city yesterday, serving with the committee working for the new proposed county of Lanier, received a telegram announcing that his son had been drowned, and left immediately for Milltown.

3 Youths Drown in Alapaha River.

Valdosta, Ga., July 13.—Three children of Henry B. Phillips, of Stockton, Ga.—Henry, aged 14; Elizabeth, 10, and a boy 2—were drowned in the Alapaha river there late today, according to a message received here. Mrs. Phillips, who was with the children when they waded into what they believed to be a shallow lagoon made by the river's recent overflow, narrowly escaped death.

Parties have gone from Naylor and Stockton to recover the bodies.

U. S. BANKERS TO LEND HUGE SUM TO FRANCE

New York, July 13.—A corporation to be known as the American Foreign Securities company will be organized by a group of bankers headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. and Brown Bros. & Co. to lend $100,000,000 to the French government, it was formally announced here tonight. The company will have a paid-up capital of $10,000,000 and will issue three-year five per cent notes to the amount of $95,000,000 in this market.

The notes are to be secured with a margin of 20 per cent by obligations of the governments of Argentina, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Switzerland, Holland, Uruguay, Egypt, Brazil, Province of Quebec, shares of the Suez Canal company and bonds and shares of American corporations. Application to list these notes on the New York stock exchange soon will be made.

RULE OF MARTIAL LAW PROCLAIMED IN SPAIN

Madrid, July 13.—(Via Paris.)—In view of the railroad strike the government has suspended the constitutional guarantees and martial law has been proclaimed through Spain tonight. King Alfonso has arrived at Madrid from La Granja. A general strike is announced for July 16.

The strike began on the Northern railroad June 11 and is reported to have spread, not merely to the other railroads of Spain, but to the industries in the great industrial centers of Barcelona, Madrid, Valencia, Bilbao and Oviedo. The primary cause of the strike was the refusal of the Northern Railway company to increase wages, but there has been growing unrest and serious disturbances in most of the provinces of Spain as a result of the increased cost of food caused by the war.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS IN ATHENS AND AUGUSTA

Augusta, Ga., July 13.—The infant child of Patrick J. Toomey, 217 McKinn street, is suffering from what the attending physician has reported to the board of health is infantile paralysis.

Athens, Ga., July 13.—Three cases of infantile paralysis were reported here today. All are children of cotton mill workers.

ALLIES' BIG DRIVE HAS ONLY STARTED, DECLARES ASQUITH

Premier Asks Workmen to Forego Holidays That the Manufacture of Munitions May Not Be Delayed.

INITIATIVE WRENCHED FROM CENTRAL POWERS

Lloyd-George Declares the British Output of Munitions Will Soon Be Overwhelming — Not Yet at One-Third Capacity.

London, July 13.—The entente allied offensive on the western front is only in its beginning, declared Premier Asquith today in announcing in the house of commons that the government had decided to ask workers to forego their August holidays because of the demand for munitions in France. He expressed conviction that the workmen would co-operate in this plan so as to make it plain to Great Britain's foes that the offensive in its present intensity of bombardment and assault, would, if necessary, be "continued indefinitely." The premier also announced that by royal proclamation the August bank holidays would be postponed and he appealed to all classes for postponement of all holidays until further and definite progress of the offensive had been secured.

Workers Have Responded.

The premier recalled that the June and July holidays had been postponed in view of the urgent military requirements of the moment, and he had to acknowledge on the part of the government a very full response by the workers to his appeal at that time.

Since then, he added, a great and very favorable change in the military situation has been produced by the allied offensive now in progress.

"That offensive," he continued, "is only in its beginning and it necessarily requires for its success a continuous supply of munitions of all kinds. From the success achieved, we have been able to gauge the paramount necessity of avoiding even the slightest risk of restriction of the use of munitions in the field, not merely in the weeks immediately before us, but until our objective is achieved.

Must Be No Slackening.

"In the opinion of the commander-in-chief, there must be no slackening in the output, even for a moment. I, therefore, appeal to the patriotism of the workers and the public generally to again postpone their holidays in order that the attack, so brilliantly begun, can be carried through to a triumphant conclusion."

Where health required, continued the premier, leave of absence would be granted and the government held themselves responsible for seeing that the holidays were merly postponed and not abandoned.

Representatives of the admiralty and the ministry of munitions, he added, would meet representatives of the workmen and employers to secure their co-operation and he was sure this would be forthcoming and that the forces in the field would "be given encouragement and the enemy discouragement in the certain knowledge that the present intensity of bombardment and assault will, if necessary, be continued indefinitely."

Tide Has Changed.

David Lloyd-George, British minister of war, presiding today at an entente allied conference on equipment, declared that the combined offensive of the allies had wrenched the initiative from the Germans, never, he trusted, to return.

"We have crossed the watershed," he said, "and now victory is beginning to flow in our direction. This change is due to the improvement in our equipment."

The conference was held at the war office and was participated in by Albert Thomas, French minister of munitions; General Beliaeff, assistant minister of war of Russia; General A. Dall 'Olio, member of the Italian ministry of war, and the new British minister of munitions, Edwin S. Montagu.

"Since our last munitions conference," said Mr. Lloyd-George, "there has been a considerable change in the fortunes of the allies. On that date the great Champagne offensive in the west had just failed to attain its objective, and the French and British armies had sustained heavy losses without the achievement of any particular success. In the east the enemy had pressed the gallant armies of Russia back some hundred miles and the Balkans had just been overrun by the central powers.

"The overwhelming victories won by the valiant soldiers of Russia have struck terror into the hearts of our foes, and these, coupled with the immortal defense of Verdun by our indomitable French comrades, and the brave resistance of the Italians against overwhelming odds in the southern Alps have changed the whole complexion of the landscape.

"Now, the combined offensive in the east and west has wrenched the initia-

Austro-Germans Appear to Have Halted Drive of the Czar's Army in Stokhod Region, Towards Which Both Sides Are Rushing Reinforcements.

RUSS FORCES PIERCE VON BOTHMER'S FRONT BUT ARE DRIVEN BACK

French Report But Little Fighting in Somme Section—Germans Still Hammering Fort Souville, Near Verdun, With Big Guns.

London, July 13.—The most violent fighting in the great entente allied offensive is on the eastern front where General Brussiloff's tremendous blows are being continued without apparent lull or hesitation. Temporarily at least, the Austro-Germans appear to have halted the Russian advance along the Stokhod. Both sides are reported to be hurling huge reinforcements of men and guns into this titanic struggle, the prize of which is the immensely important strategic town of Kovel.

Farther to the south a battle of almost equal intensity is raging on the lower Stripa, where the Russians are striking north in an effort to crush General von Bothmer and flank the entire Austro-German line.

The Austrians admit that the Russians penetrated Von Bothmer's front at some points, but assert they were driven out again in counter attacks. The Russians claim to have taken 2,000 prisoners, but make no mention of a gain in territory.

BRITONS ADVANCE AND HOLD TERRITORY.

The British have done more than hold their gains on their portion of the Somme front, and the usual period of consolidation and the pushing of the big artillery is presumed to be taking place. A similar situation exists on the French line and a remarkably brief French official statement of Thursday night simply records the continuance of the bombardment at Fort Souville, in the Verdun region.

The British official statement, issued tonight, reads:

"The artillery on both sides has been active throughout the day. As a result of sharp infantry fighting we are not only maintaining our pressure on the enemy, but have appreciably advanced our line at various points on the battle front.

"In one sector of the front we captured some German howitzers with a quantity of ammunition. These will be used against the enemy at a suitable opportunity."

DESPERATE FIGHTING IN GALICIA.

Petrograd, July 13.—(Via London.)—The capture of more than 2,000 prisoners by the Russians in desperate fighting west of the Lower Stripa in Galicia is announced by the war office in today's official statement. The statement says:

"On the Dvina above and below Friedrichstadt we carried out successful reconnaissances.

"On the Stokhod there has been an artillery duel. Some squadrons of enemy aircraft flew around our lines, dropping bombs and firing machine guns.

"In Galicia in the region west of the Lower Stripa desperate fighting has occurred in many places, the enemy launching energetic counter attacks.

C. F. von HERRMANN, Meteorologist, Weather Bureau.

We took more than 2,000 men prisoner and captured a gun and some machine guns.

"Caucasus front: West of the Erzerum line we carried out a successful offensive. The Turks vainly attempted to launch counter attacks."

THINGS ARE QUIET ON WESTERN FRONT.

Paris, July 13.—The official communication issued by the war office tonight reads:

"Except for a somewhat spirited bombardment in the sector of Souville, on the right bank of the Meuse, there is no event of importance to report on the front."

The afternoon statement follows:

"There have been intermittent artillery exchanges along the front of the River Somme.

"In the Champagne district we penetrated a salient of the German line in the vicinity of Prosnes and brought back some prisoners.

"In the Argonne two surprise attacks delivered by the enemy upon the northern and eastern portions of the Bolante salient failed under our fire. At La Fille Morte we caused the explosion of a mine and then occupied the southern side of the crater.

"On the right bank of the River Meuse there has been no infantry fighting. During the night, however, there was an intense bombardment in the sectors of Souville, Chenois and La Laufee.

"In the Vosges an attack by the enemy upon one of our trenches south of Corspach has been repulsed after a spirited engagement with hand grenades."

The official statement, which is timed 2 o'clock this afternoon, says:

"Heavy artillery duels were in progress in certain sectors of the battle area since the last report and fighting continued at various points on the front, but there was no change in the situation on any part of our line.

"West of Wyschaete and south of La Bassee canal the enemy attempted to raid our trenches, but he was driven off in each case by our fire.

"Despite unfavorable weather, our aeroplanes have been constantly at work. Hostile machines were active, but all their attacks on our aeroplanes operating over the German lines were driven off. One of our aeroplanes is missing."

GERMANS REPULSE RUSSIANS IN GALICIA.

Berlin, July 13.—(Via London.)—German troops under command of General Count von Bothmer by an encircling counter attack have driven back the Russian forces which had pushed forward in the region northwest of Buczacz, in Galicia, says the German official statement issued today. The Germans took 400 prisoners.

The text of the statement says:

"Eastern theater: Army group of General Count von Bothmer: German troops by an encircling counter attack carried out near and to the north of Olessa, northwest of Buczacz, drove back the Russian troops which had pushed forward and more than 400 prisoners were taken."

Western front:

"Artillery fire continued with great intensity yesterday south of the Somme, the French met with no success in attacks which they several times began on both sides of Barleux and near and west of Estrees. They were compelled to turn back under our effective curtain of fire, suffering the most severe sanguinary losses.

"The British have established themselves in Contalmaison.

"East of the Meuse artillery fighting continues active. Infantry positions won have been consolidated. The number of prisoners has increased by 17 officers and 243 men and now stands at 56 officers and 2,349 men.

"Near Freilingham, on La Bassee canal, on La Fille Morte height, east of Badonvillers, and near Hierzbach, German patrol engagements were successful.

"North of Soissons a French biplane was compelled to land within our lines."

RUSSIANS REPULSED, CLAIM AUSTRIANS.

Vienna, July 13.—(Via London.)—The official statement from general headquarters issued today reads:

"West and northwest of Buczacz the enemy again attacked General von Bothmer's allied armies with strong forces. While part of the attacking columns collapsed before our obstacles, other parts succeeded in penetrating a section of our position. But they were speedily ejected by a swift counter attack. We took many prisoners.

"On the Stokhod, astride the Kovel-Sarny railroad we repulsed Russian attacks.

"On the Italian front we have repulsed further heavy attacks in our Monte Rasta sector."

ITALIANS HOLD POSITIONS WON.

Rome, July 13.—(Via London.)—Austrian troops in the Adige valley, after a heavy bombardment made an attack yesterday on positions recently won by the Italians. The war office announced today that the Austrians had been driven back in disorder, with large losses. The statement follows:

"In the Camonica valley there was marked activity on the part of the enemy's artillery, particularly in the Tonale region.

"In the Adige valley yesterday afternoon after artillery preparation on an immense scale, the enemy attacked our new positions north of Malga Zugna. He was driven back in disorder, with heavy loss by the prompt and effective concentration of our fire.

"On the remainder of the front to the Brenta we bombarded the enemy's lines heavily, and our infantry made attacks with some success at several points.

"There were no occurrences of importance on the Isonzo front."

ARTILLERY ATTACK AT SAN NAYYAT.

London, July 13.—The British expedition to Mesopotamia is still at San Nayyat, about 15 miles below Kut-el-Amara on the Tigris, according to an official statement issued today. The statement says that the British forces have been subjected to an ineffectual artillery attack.

THIRST QUENCHING COMES AHEAD OF BATHS, SAYS JUDGE

Jackson, Ga., July 13.—(Special.)—A case involving the right of Butts county citizens to take water away from Indian Springs was decided this week by Judge W. E. H. Searcy, Jr., of the Flint circuit, in favor of the petitioners.

L. W. Scoville, lessee of the state grounds at Indian Springs and proprietor of the Wigwam hotel, had refused to allow servants of Jackson citizens to take away the water from the famous springs, on the ground that it inconvenienced him in securing enough of the sulphur water for his baths. Thirty-eight Jackson citizens asked that Mr. Scoville be enjoined from interfering with the taking away of water, and when the case was heard before Judge Searcy in Griffin he granted the restraining order.

The case created considerable interest, as it has long been the custom for citizens to send to Indian Springs and get water in jugs and bottles for medicinal and family use. The case, it is stated, will be appealed to the supreme court.

ILL HEALTH CAUSES VETERAN ORDINARY OF PIKE TO QUIT

Barnesville, Ga., July 13.—(Special.) Judge J. W. Means, on account of failing health, has resigned the office of ordinary of Pike to take effect at once, after having filled the place most acceptably to the people of the county for the past twenty years. He yet holds the esteem of the people, but for some time he has been physically unable to discharge the duties of the office without assistance.

As there is a vacancy in the board of county commissioners, an election will probably be called to fill the two places on the same day. There will likely be several candidates for both positions.

SAILOR OF DEUTSCHLAND SITS IN WILSON'S CHAIR

Washington, July 13.—Six seamen from the German submarine merchantman Deutschland came over from Baltimore today and were entertained at the white house and the navy department. A white house attache showed them through the East, Blue and Red rooms, the cabinet room and President Wilson's private office.

One of the youngsters asked permission to sit in the president's chair at the head of the cabinet table and he did it while his comrades grinned appreciation. All were much interested in the war maps showing the positions of the armies in Europe, and they pointed with pride to the names of their home towns in Germany.

At the navy department Assistant Secretary Roosevelt received the visitors and congratulated them in German upon their voyage. They inspected historic naval relics in Secretary Daniel's office, including the flag of the American submarine F-4 which sank with 21 men.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Osborne, of 375 Oakland avenue, will give a watermelon cutting to the nurses of the Georgia Baptist hospital this evening from 8 to 11 o'clock at their residence. There will be interesting features of entertainment provided for the occasion.

JAMES C. BURGER WINS OFFICE OF OUTER GUARD

Atlanta Patrol Wins Honors by Beautiful Drill—Next Meet in Minneapolis.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 13.—James C. Burger, of Denver, was elected to the office of outer guard, the first stepping stone to the highest office in the order, at the closing session of the forty-second annual meeting of the Imperial Council, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, here today. There was keen competition for the honor this year, David W. Crossland, of Montgomery, Ala., leading up to the fourth ballot in a field of five candidates. Minneapolis was selected as the meeting place for June 26, 27 and 28, 1917.

All the imperial officers advanced one station, according to custom, except the secretary and the treasurer, respectively, William S. Brown, of Pittsburg, and Benjamin W. Rowell, of Boston, who were re-elected. Henry N. Niedringhause, of St. Louis, thus became imperial potentate.

Dispensations were granted to Kazig temple, of Roanoke, Va., and Soudan temple, of Newbern, N. C. The only temple to get a charter was Alzafar, of San Antonio, Texas. An application for a charter for the Panama canal zone was refused.

Attention was called to the fact that a few women were allowed to parade with the Shriners in Buffalo and it was decided to enforce more rigidly the rules excluding all except Nobles.

Yaarab temple, of Atlanta, which has been one of the most popular Shrine organizations here, was represented by its band and patrol. The patrol went through its many intricate and spectacular movements under the direction of Lieutenant F. E. Vanderveer, ending with the new flag figure, in which the flags of all nations are shown spread by the members of the patrol, and, at a signal from the commander, are suddenly reversed, making one huge American flag. At this point two dozen beautiful pigeons were released, two of them "bowers," which bear messages to The Constitution. These were especially trained by C. W. Ferguson for this unique feat. The result of this spectacular feature, following the excellent drill, was sufficient to win for Yaarab temple the honors of the occasion. At Buffalo the caravan of Yaarab Shriners split up, some members going west, others to Canada, and the main body leaving at 11 p. m. for Atlantic City. Everyone in the caravan is well.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS BALKS MEDICAL SCIENCE

New York, July 13.—Leaders in the medical profession, public health experts from many cities, philanthropists and charity workers attended a mass meeting here tonight at the Academy of Medicine for the discussion of infantile paralysis, which has brought death into hundreds of homes here in the past few weeks.

Those who hoped that a cure for the disease would be heralded or that isolation of its deadly germ would be announced, were disappointed. Dr. Simon Flexner, of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, and other experts told of the progress made by medical science in combatting the disease, but they had no epoch marking discoveries to proclaim.

Dr. Flexner, who has devoted his own skill and the resources of the Rockefeller institute to the battle against the disease, declared, however, that there is no occasion for panic. He asserted that the death rate from infantile paralysis is lower even than from other maladies considered far less serious. He had a message of cheer for anxious parents in the announcement that in a large percentage of cases there are complete recoveries.

Artificial respiration was suggested by Dr. Louis C. Ager as one method of treatment. He said it was possible considerable might be accomplished in that way.

Dr. Haven Emerson, health commissioner of this city, told what is being done to fight the epidemic and asserted the widespread alarm which parents feel is not justified. He said that out of 2,600 suspected cases investigated only 1,640 true cases of infantile paralysis had been found, of which 308 resulted fatally.

The origin of the disease is in the secretions of the nose, throat and intestines. The chief conveyor is the human being himself, Dr. Flexner said. Flies are known to have carried the infection in some cases, and poultry, pigs, dogs and cats are suspected. The chief means of dissemination are kissing and sneezing and coughing.

Very many cases also have been transmitted by mothers caring for the noses and throats of their children and then carrying the virus either to the other children or to their food, the expert declared.

Protection can be best gained through the isolation of the disease, and the sanitary control of those coming in contact with it. At present there is no safe method of preventive inoculation, though experiments are being made with the transfusion of blood from a person already made immune by having had the disease, or by the use of sub-effective doses of the virus itself. Nor is there as yet any practicable method of specific treatment.

Body of F. A. Hickson Will Reach Atlanta At 11:30 O'Clock Today

The body of F. A. Hickson, of 290 East Hunter street, who died Wednesday in New Orleans, will reach Atlanta Friday morning at 11:30 o'clock, and will be carried to the chapel of Greenberg & Bond company, pending funeral arrangements, which will be announced later.

Canada was Hickson's original home, and he was at one time a scout under Buffalo Bill. He was one of the first to reach the scene of General Custer's camp after the massacre. He came to Atlanta about 30 years ago, and, engaged in the contracting business, built the first street car lines in Atlanta and Macon. He was on government work in New Orleans when he died.

Mr. Hickson had been commander of the Greater Atlanta Tent of the Maccabees for three terms, and had been captain of the degree team of Capitol Lodge, No. 60, of the Odd Fellows.

He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Queen Hickson Payne, of Atlanta.

FORMER ATLANTA MAN SUCCUMBS IN AUGUSTA

Augusta, Ga., July 13.—(Special.)—W. W. Stovall, president of the Stovall-Pace company, wholesale dry goods merchants, died at the University hospital here this afternoon. He had been a resident of Augusta for seven years. Prior to that time he was in business in Atlanta for twenty years.

Mr. Stovall went to Atlanta from Gainesville, where he had been in mercantile lines for twelve years. He was in the fifty-sixth year of his age. Other than his wife, he is survived by his parents, who live in Forsyth county, and three children, Miss Ruth and James B., of Augusta, and Lieutenant Harry W. Stovall, of the United States army. There are five brothers and one sister in different Georgia cities.

Mr. Stovall opened his place of business Wednesday morning, complaining of a stomach trouble. He later in the day accepted the advice of his physician that he go to the hospital. The illness rapidly became more severe, and death resulted at 4 p. m. today.

The funeral announcements have not yet been made.

NO PARTY OPPOSITION FOR BIG NAVAL MEASURE

Senate Leaders Emphasize Intention to Expedite Consideration of Bill.

Washington, July 13.—The senate today began discussion of the $315,000,000 naval bill, the largest naval appropriation measure by many millions in the nation's history, and bearing increases of nearly $50,000,000 over its total as it passed the house. Senate leaders emphasized their intention of expediting its consideration and little opposition arose to the committee amendments presented.

An indication that the senate is in sympathy with the liberal increases written into the bill by the senate naval committee was seen in the approval without opposition of a section increasing the enlisted strength of the navy from the present 54,000 to 68,700 men and 6,000 apprentice seamen. The house bill provided for an increase to only 61,000 men.

When the personnel section was reached Senator Norris asked for an explanation of its purpose. Senator Swanson, in charge of the measure, replied that the section as drafted followed the recommendations of the navy general board and would give only a sufficient personnel to man the best battleships and cruisers now in commission and a 50 per cent complement for vessels in reserve. Senator Lodge, ranking republican member of the naval committee, also declared the increase imperative.

That there would be no partisan opposition to the bill was apparent from the beginning of the debate, and leaders regarded the progress made on the first day's consideration as highly encouraging. The building program probably will be reached within a few days, and while it will develop the only serious opposition the measure is expected to meet, champions of the bill believe, the authorization for 1917, including four dreadnaughts and four battle cruisers, together with the three-year construction policy, will be approved. A long fight is expected in conference, the house bill having provided for only five capital ships.

The only committee recommendation which met determined opposition today was one providing for a commission to report on the advisability of establishing at least one more naval academy. After a long debate, in which Senator Weeks led the opposition to the proposal and Senator Phelan and others defended it, the senate sustained the committee, 32 to 27.

"We have as much need of another naval academy as we have of another capitol," Senator Weeks declared. "With the exception of dormitory room we have all the equipment necessary for many more students at Annapolis. It would be a waste of government money to establish another academy."

Mr. Phelan argued that the growing importance of the west generally and of the Pacific waters particularly from a naval standpoint made the establishment of a west coast academy desirable.

CHAMBER IN FAVOR OF CHANGE IN WAY OF ELECTING JUDGES

At a meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce yesterday afternoon favorable action was taken on the recommendation of the legislative committee, of which Albert Howell is chairman, indorsing the bill, offering an amendment to section 3 of article 6 of the state constitution, changing the method of electing judges to the superior court.

Paragraph 2 as amended will read:

"After January 1, 1917, the successors to the incumbents shall be selected as follows:

"Out of a list of three (3) qualified attorneys to be nominated and certified by the judges of the supreme court as to each position to be filled the governor shall appoint subject to confirmation of the senate. If the senate rejects, the governor may appoint from the names remaining, or the judges of the supreme court may fill the place list. The supreme court shall adopt rules by which its nominations shall be kept secret, and may adopt other rules to carry this provision into effect. No person shall be eligible for nomination who shall directly or indirectly solicit the same otherwise than by presenting an application upon a form to be prescribed by the supreme court upon which he may state his experience and qualifications for the office, and such other information as the supreme court may request. In the event the judges of the supreme court shall be equally divided as to a nomination, the vote of the chief justice shall decide.

"Paragraph 3. The terms of the judges to be selected upder the constitution (except to fill vacancies) shall begin on the first day of January next after their appointment. Every vacancy occurring by death, resignation, or other causes, shall be filled by appointment of the governor from a list of nominees certified by the supreme court, as in the preceding paragraph provided for."

SCHOONER IS WRECKED; CREW BELIEVED LOST

Washington, July 13.—The schooner Carrie Strong, oound from Mobile for Matanzas, was wrecked in the hurricane of last week and was found bottom side up about 250 miles west of Key West, according to a report from Lieutenant Hottel, of the coast guard cutter Tallapoosa, received here today. All of the crew are believed to have been lost.

Freight Rate Discriminations Do Exist in Georgia

The railroads of Georgia have suggested for the consideration of the Railroad Commission of Georgia, at the hearing on August 17th, a system of rates that it is believed will eliminate the discriminations now existing between the cities and towns in Georgia.

There are approximately two thousand railroad stations (cities and towns) in Georgia. About sixty of these cities and towns are accorded what are known as "basing point rates," which means that these comparatively few points enjoy lower rates than the other nineteen hundred and forty points.

The rates between these comparatively few basing points are lower than the rates between intermediate points and lower than for like hauls in other directions.

The basing point system has been condemned by the Federal Congress, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Railroad Commission of Georgia and the authorities of other States.

In their desire to retain the advantage they have enjoyed, a considerable number of these sixty favored larger cities and towns (basing points) are opposing a freight rate revision in Georgia.

The railroads have been put on notice by the Supreme Court of the United States and the Interstate Commerce Commission that they must harmonize state and interstate rates.

In the Shreveport Case, the Supreme Court of the United States held:

"The power to deal with the relation between two kinds of rates as a relation lies exclusively with Congress. It is manifest that the State cannot fix the relation of a carrier's inter and intrastate charges without directly interfering with the former, unless it simply follows the standard set by the Federal authorities."

The Interstate Commerce Commission, pursuant to an Act of Congress, has ordered the elimination of the basing point system. To conform to the requirements of this order the railroads were compelled to make a radical revision of interstate rates.

Correction of interstate systems of rates in conformity with present legal requirements, without correcting intrastate systems so as to conform to the same standard, would create situations repugnant to the laws against discrimination.

It is necessary to bring about a revision of rates in the entire Southeast in order to harmonize intrastate rates with interstate rates.

A beginning in the matter of revision of intrastate rates must be made. The railroads first petitioned the Railroad Commission of Georgia for a revision because more discriminations and inequalities exist in this State than in any other State in the South.

Petitions are now being prepared for presentation to the Railroad Commissions of various States in the Southeast with this object in view.

What the railroads of Georgia now propose to the Railroad Commission of Georgia is a revision of Georgia rates in conformity with the principles that the Interstate Commerce Commission, pursuant to Federal law, has required them to observe in adjusting interstate rates.

We do not believe that the people of Georgia expect or require a preferential adjustment of freight rates.

The real question involved is whether the proposed revision is just and reasonable from the standpoint of the railroads and the shippers, and such advances as are proposed should not be condemned simply because they are advances.

It is not and will not be the policy of the Railroads of Georgia to propose any system of rates which would discriminate unjustly against the Georgia producer in favor of producers located at points without the State. Should the principle appear to be violated by any technical construction of the petition we give assurance that we will not propose, nor will we attempt to adopt, in actual practice, any rate at variance with the same.

The interests of the people and the interests of Railroads are identical. Any system of rate-making which works a hardship on the one works a hardship on the other. The primary object in the proposed revision is to systematize Georgia freight rates so that all cities and towns may be put on an equal basis and discriminations removed.

Some rates will be increased, while others will be lowered. If, in the readjustment, the railroads enjoy increased revenue it will not be unreasonable for the Commission to grant it, because the railroads have heretofore shown the tremendous advance in the cost of everything which enters into the manufacture of transportation.

Commissioner Daniel, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, in the investigation of the 1915 Western Rate Advance Case, said:

"In the matter of rate regulation and fixation we have reached a point where one of two courses ought deliberately to be chosen and clearly announced. If, despite increased costs not offset by increased revenue, increases in rates are to be denied, except where in individual instances gross injustice would be occasioned by their denial, the carriers ought to be apprised of this policy, so that they may set their house in order, if they can, against such a situation. If, on the other hand, we are to acknowledge in general what we are perforce compelled to admit in detail, just and reasonable increased rates should be permitted not grudgingly, but with such fair measure of allowance as will indicate that the transportation industry is entitled in the interest of the public to earnings sufficient to provide a service commensurate with public needs."

TO RAISE EMBARGO AGAINST MEXICANS

Permission to Again Send Goods Across Border Is Asked of State Department by Treasury Department.

Washington, July 13.—Authority from the state department to permit restoration to normal of movement into Mexico of all commodities except munitions of war was asked today by the treasury department.

Shipments of clothing and food already are being passed freely by the customs and military authorities, but large quantities of freight, chiefly lumber and coal, have accumulated along the border.

Virtually a complete embargo against exports into Mexico was imposed, without formal proclamation, when the crisis between the United States and the Carranza government reached such a stage that war seemed unavoidable.

Now that friendly diplomatic negotiations are in progress looking to a settlement of all issues, many officials regard it as an unnecessary hardship both upon Mexicans and upon American interests in Mexico to prevent shipments other than war supplies.

General Pershing reported today that it was generally believed both by Mexicans and foreigners along the line of communication that a crisis had been averted and that this had brought about a new friendly relationship between the Americans and Mexicans.

"Mexicans in this vicinity and along the railroad," the dispatch said, "are reported very friendly toward Americans in the last few days. It is generally believed that trouble between the United States and Mexico has been settled. The rainy season is on in earnest, heavy rains being reported from the various stations along the line during the last few days. Will report within day or two effect of rain upon roads and general prospects regarding road maintenance."

Customs collectors have been instructed, upon request of the state department, to permit railroad rolling stock to enter Mexico by equitable exchange of cars. For every car permitted to enter Mexico, the order stipulates, a car from Mexico shall enter American territory. The collectors also are instructed not to interfere with further shipments of food and clothing into Mexico. It is understood, however, that the present method of handling war munitions destined to points beyond the border shall continue in force until further notice.

MOTORCYCLE FLEET TO CHASE BANDITS.

Columbus, N. M., July 13.—A fleet of motor tricycles with machine guns mounted on them left here today to reinforce cavalry patrols along the frontier because of reports that small bandit bands in the San Simon valley planned carrying out its threat to raid American territory. Colonel Sickles, in charge of the border patrol, issued warning to cavalry line raiders patrolling the district near the New Mexico-Arizona boundary.

THE DAY'S GRIST FROM THE STATE POLITICAL MILL

CALVIN PARKER APPOINTED HARRIS CAMPAIGN MANAGER

Governor Harris' campaign manager will be Representative Calvin W. Parker, of Waycross, with Stephen Upson, of Clarke county, as assistant. The Harris headquarters in the Kimball house will be formally opened today by about 150 of Governor Harris' friends.

County committees will represent Governor Harris in several parts of the state.

DORSEY CLUBS ARE BEING FORMED IN BUTTS COUNTY

Jackson, Ga., July 13.—(Special.)—Dorsey clubs will be organized in each of the eight districts in Butts county to further the candidacy of Hugh M. Dorsey for governor, according to friends of the former Atlanta solicitor general. Mr. Dorsey has a large following in this county and will, without exception, receive a tremendous vote.

Two years ago Governor Harris carried the county by an overwhelming vote, Dr. Hardman running second and J. Randolph Anderson third. Friends of Mr. Dorsey will arrange for him to speak here during the summer, the date to be announced later.

WALTER E. STEED, CANDIDATE FOR SENATE FROM TWENTY-THIRD

Butler, Ga., July 13.—(Special.)—Hon. Walter E. Steed, of Butler, Taylor county, has, after the earnest solicitation of a large number of the people, announced for the state senate from the Twenty-third district.

Under the rotation system, it is Taylor's time to send the senator. Colonel Steed has represented this district before, rendering valuable and lasting service to the state and district. He is thoroughly familiar with all the details of legislation. He is progressive and thoroughly well posted on all public matters. He is at present a member of the state board of education, chairman of the board of trustees of the Third District Agricultural school at Americus, and vice-president of the Good Roads Club of Georgia. He was recently elected as a delegate to the national democratic convention.

It is generally conceded that Mr. Steed is eminently qualified to represent his district in the next senate.

NO OPPOSITION LIKELY FOR FLINT COURT OFFICIALS

Barnesville, Ga., July 13.—(Special.) Judge W. E. H. Searcy, Jr., of Griffin, who has been judge of the Flint circuit since the death of Judge Robert T. Daniel, under appointment, has announced his candidacy for the balance of the term, submitting his claims in the primary on September 12.

Hon. E. M. Owen, of Zebulon, is a candidate for solicitor of the circuit, asking re-election after having made the reputation during his present term as one of the ablest solicitors of the state.

Judges Searcy and Solicitor Owen will both probably be elected without opposition, as their services have proved entirely satisfactory to the people of the several counties of the Flint circuit.

RIFTED CLOUDS BRING SUNSHINE TO DECATUR FOLK

Bainbridge, Ga., July 13.—(Special.)—All Decatur county streams are falling tonight. The largest ones are still out of their banks, but the danger is passed. It is evident today that damages are considerably less than people at first thought.

With the past two days bright and sunny, crops are looking much better and those that escaped overflows will be all right. All tobacco housed before the rain has been kept in good condition by fire withi nthe barns.

Farmers are feeling much more cheerful.

RAIN BRINGS HARD WORK

Water Department Busy Clearing Out the Mud.

The city water department is having trouble clearing the drinking water of the mud caused by the overflow of the Chattahoochee. The city filtering system is put to an extra hard task. Zode Smith, water works manager, says that in each million gallons of water there are about 560 gallons of mud. He states, though, that the people need have no fear of drinking any of this solid matter, as the system is amply able to clear the water.

COMITTEE ACTS TODAY ON BOOZE SHIPMENT FEE

When the senate committee on finance, Senator Akin, of the fifth, chairman, meets this morning at 9 o'clock to pass upon the Stovall tax act repeal bill, it will also take action upon the bill of Senator Eakes, of the twenty-eighth, to provide a fee for ordinaries for the registration of liquor deliveries under the new prohibition law.

MOTORBOATS HUNT MAN-EATING SHARKS

been known to attack a human being. Although stragglers of dangerous tropical species, the white shark and blue shark, have been taken in our waters, in practically every instance they were immature, not adult fish.

"In the present instances we have cases in which human beings have been attacked, presumably by a shark. We may have either a solitary individual that has acquired a taste for human flesh, or possibly a small number of sharks driven by scarcity of food to adopt unusual measures. In either case it should not be difficult to remedy this condition, for hungry sharks promptly fall an easy prey to a baited hook.

"As a precautionary measure, it is suggested that if the authorities at the various resorts on the coast will attach a heavy line and baited shark hook, buoyed to within two or three feet of the surface of the water, to a pile or anchored buoy some four or five hundred yards from the life lines, at intervals of about one-quarter of a mile parallel with the short line, the dangerous species will soon be captured. The hooks should be kept well baited, especially at night."

Bridgeport, Conn., July 13.—A five-foot shark, the second within a week, was caught today in a small inlet close to Fairfield Beach, one of the most popular bathing places in this vicinity. The big fish apparently had come across the shoals during high tide and had been left stranded by the receding water.

Jacksonville, Fla., July 13.—The presence of a large number of sharks along the south Atlantic coast is believed to be responsible for the driving of many big fish into harbors and rivers. Within the past two days fish rarely ever seen in the St. Johns river and of unusual size have been captured. A large Manatee, measuring 14 feet in length and weighing 2,000 pounds, was caught today. Yesterday a grouper weighing 600 pounds was hit by a steamer and, being disabled, was picked up by boatmen.

Sharks recently drove thirteen black whales ashore at Pablo Beach, 18 miles from Jacksonville.

Fishermen and boatmen declare that sharks are more numerous this year than any time within their recollection.

Mobile, Ala., July 13.—Great schools of sharks, believed to have been driven toward the gulf coast by the recent West Indian hurricane, are reported in the vicinity of Fort Morgan, at the mouth of Mobile bay, by persons arriving here on steamers. In some instances the sharks are reported to have ventured a long distance up the bay.

No sharks have been reported in the vicinity of the bathing resorts along the eastern coast of the bay.

cautioning fishermen and bathers to use the greatest care in boating or swimming.

Records of the bureau show that until this year there have been no sharks in the waters where during the last few weeks they have claimed several victims. Bureau officials believe a lack of food may have brought them to the northern Atlantic coast in great numbers.

In a statement issued today Commissioner Smith, of the bureau said:

"While it is true that occasional human beings have been attacked by sharks in tropical waters, the number of such instances in temperate waters, of which these are apparently the first authoritative ones on our coast, are exceedingly rare.

"None of our common sharks have

TO CONCLUDE DEFENSE IN ORPET CASE TODAY

Waukegan, Ill., July 13.—The last word in defense of William H. Orpet, on trial for the murder of Marion Lambert, will have been said tomorrow when James H. Wilkerson, chief of counsel for the University of Wisconsin student, finishes the argument he began today.

As far as he progressed, Mr. Wilkerson has confined his presentation to a review of the acts of the young collegian just preceding and following the death of the Lake Forest High school girl in the woods where they met February last—acts, which he claimed, were not innocent enough in themselves, but have been made to appear detrimental to Orpet. There remains the closing argument of the state, and with this address to the jurors six lawyers in all will have been heard.

WILL TRY TO PASS MONEY SHEET AGAIN

Councilman Plans to Eliminate Salary Increases and Then Offer Last Sheet Prepared for Vote.

It is understood that a member of general council will introduce at the meeting next Monday the last finance sheet prepared by the finance committee as the June sheet minus the salary increases for the purchasing agent and the city hall custodian.

Several members of council have said they would vote for this sheet over the mayor's veto if the proposed salary raises were eliminated. It is thought that if the sheet is reintroduced it will receive enough votes to pass. Many members of council have said they voted against it last time it was brought up because of the proposed salary increases.

Plan Adjourned Meeting.

It is also probable that at the same meeting a motion for an adjourned meeting of council will be made to have the sheet in its revised form passed as quickly as possible. The adjourned meeting will be asked for on the following Monday.

The sheet that the councilman, whose name is withheld at his request, proposes to use is the one passed by council at the last meeting, and afterward vetoed by the mayor. It carries with it funds for the school system, which were eliminated by the special committee in preparing their proposed sheet, and is thought to be about the best that can be prepared at this time.

The work of the special committee, which was held two meetings since the last councilmanic session, and which was vetoed by the mayor shortly after the paper authorizing their appointment reached him, eliminates all money for school purposes.

It is openly said by members of council that their work is in vain, and their sheet, if introduced, will be tabled or voted down.

Mayor Woodward has repeatedly refused to sign any sheet passed and it would therefore be incumbent on council to pass the proposed sheet with its salary amendments over his veto.

In commenting on his plan, the councilman who has the idea in view, said, "I feel that the city should have some sort of finance sheet for June. The one in question is certainly about the best that can be made. It now carries a majority favorable report from the finance committee and I think that if the proposed salary increases were eliminated it would be easily passed. At any rate I have about decided to make the effort. It seems to me council has placed itself in a very unenviable position by the recent wrangle over the June sheet. The members ought to get together on some budget."

Will Be Fight Monday.

It is very probable that even if the proposed June sheet is not introduced as now planned there will be a fight Monday to have the apportionments for the school system passed by a special resolution.

The board of education has announced that unless an annex is built for the Tech high school more than 200 students will be turned down this fall.

They also urge the need of other funds for improvements to the Girls' high school and other items in the school system.

Alderman Jesse Armistead has declared his intention of insisting on a special paper to provide these funds. He urges the need for the money and will make every effort to have a special resolution passed Monday regardless of the budget which would care for these necessary school improvements.

PATHE SHOWS SUBMARINE

Criterion Theater Has Special Program for Two Days.

The Criterion theater is offering today and tomorrow the first of the new Pathe-Constitution pictures to be shown in Atlanta. The big feature of the news program for today and tomorrow are the pictures of the German submarine, Deutschland, as it landed in Baltimore.

The Pathe pictures of the landing of this vessel were the first taken after the little boat hove to in the Chesapeake harbor. The pictures are clear and it is easy to see the smallest detail of the submarine.

Besides this big feature, the weekly news picture shows divisions of the national guard landing along the border and taking up duties there; the return of the bodies of the seven negro troopers killed in battle at Carrizal; a big submarine recently completed for the United States government; celebration of the anniversary of Italy's entrance into the war, and many other interesting events.

The Pathe corporation has made arrangements with The Constitution whereby they will be able to cover the southern states thoroughly and secure pictures of all interesting events in this section. The two big news gathering bodies will work together in giving the public the best and latest news.

INJUNCTION SUIT FILED

Attorney General Files Suit Against Electric Company.

Hearing of the injunction suit brought by Attorney General Clifford Walker, on behalf of the state against the Georgia Railway and Power company, to prevent the latter from hauling contractors and builders' supplies over its lines was begun in Judge W. D. Ellis' division of the superior court Thursday morning.

The suit was filed by the attorney general following a request from a number of local contracting firms who are named in the petition as relators.

It is the contention of these relators that the Georgia Railway and Power company has no right under its charter to haul or sell in Atlanta crushed stone and sand for the purpose of doing individual contracting for private concerns.

Judge Walter Colquitt, attorney for the power company, raised the question of the legality of the attorney general's action in bringing suit in the name of the state without an order from the governor for him to do so.

On that question Judge Powell, who represented the relators, contended that the attorney general was required to move in the interest of public welfare and that he was entirely within his rights to institute the proceedings.

On account of the volume of legal technique being employed by both sides, indications are that the suit will last the entire session of the court.

KNOCKED DOWN BY TAXI

Mrs. G. W. Morgan Painfully Injured Thursday Morning.

Mrs. G. W. Morgan, of 101 East Ellis street, was knocked down and painfully injured Thursday morning while attempting to cross James street at the intersection of Forsyth, by a taxi-cab driven by a negro chauffeur, Edwin Baker, of No. 10 Plant street.

The injured woman was rushed to the Grady hospital, where late last night she was said to be recovering. Baker was arrested and is being held at police headquarters in default of $500 bond.

The automobile was the property of the Atlanta Baggage and Cab company, and at the time of the accident was conveying Miss C. M. Preston, of Macon, and G. A. Beckett, 1123 Hurt building, to the Terminal station.

ROAD WORK RESUMED

Repair Gang Busy Following Rains—Concrete Paving.

Following a week's lay-up on account of the heavy rains, county construction forces are again at work. Although little damage was done to the county roads by the heavy rains of last week, there are several places where repair work will have to be done.

Wednesday county forces placed a big steam shovel at work on Riverside drive and the work there is now going on rapidly.

The next important work which the county will start will be the concreting of roads.

The proposed concrete work will be done on the Hightower road from the Gordon to the Mason-Turner roads; from the East Pace's Ferry road to the Piedmont road and on the Mason-Turner road from the river to the Hightower road. Several blocks of concreting is proposed for Lakewood avenue.

NEW THEATRICAL AGENCY

Southern Theatrical Producing Company Files Petition.

The Southern Theatrical Producing and Investment company asked for incorporation, with $10,000 capital stock, in the superior court Thursday. This new concern will bill theatrical productions over the country, with Atlanta as headquarters.

The incorporators are named as Charles A. Kuehle and Mrs. Kuehle, who have been associated with the Greenwood Theatrical agency. They also asked for permission to increase the capital stock at any time to $100,000. Attorney Samuel A. Massell filed the application.

GET SCHOOL TICKETS EARLY, URGES LANDRUM

L. M. Landrum, superintendent of schools, yesterday urged school patrons to obtain admission tickets for their children early, in order to avoid the rush later, and to be assured of getting seats. Application must be made between July 1 and September 1.

Presentation of vaccination certificates will enable the applicants to secure admission certificates at the office of the superintendent, 414 Chamber of Commerce building.

Many are misinformed as to the requirements regulating entrance into the high schools from the grammar schools, and many mothers are applying for admission certificates for regularly promoted pupils of the grammar schools, which is entirely unnecessary. When promoted from the grammar schools pupils are permitted to go directly into both high schools without further applying for admission tickets.

TELEPHONE SERVICE DAMAGE VERY HEAVY

Many Phones Put Out of Commission by Continued Downpour of Last Few Days.

The recent storms and excessive rains played havoc with the telephone service of the Southern Bell company in many of its exchanges in the south, the larger cities being the worst sufferers.

The situation at Mobile, Ala., was considered very serious at one time. The high wind from the gulf came up so quickly and unexpectedly that service was entirely suspended for a short period. It is estimated that at least 1,200 telephones were put out of commission, and an investigation showed 680 telephone poles blown down or in such a condition as to render transmission useless.

Approximately six miles of cable were down in certain sections of the city. Every available man was hurried to this city, and service is being restored at a remarkable rate of speed. Toll lines suffered extensively on account of fallen trees and crossed wires, but the restoration of long distance service was given immediate attention and the wires are being rapidly put in such condition that will meet normal business requirements.

Montgomery suffered to a great extent, nearly 1,200 local cases of trouble reported. This was caused mainly by the excessive rains and cable leaks. Toll lines here were seriously damaged, but service is being had as usual today.

Birmingham was the hardest hit. Over 1,300 telephones were reported out of commission, the majority of these cases were on account of cable leaks. The continuous rains caused great damage to telephone cables, which is one of the most serious and complicated troubles to remedy. It is thought that all telephones will be in working order by tonight. Toll lines out of Birmingham were greatly damaged by the wind and falling trees, but service was restored promptly and the lines are working as usual.

The rapidity of the Southern Bell Telephone company in repairing the toll lines and restoring long distance service is being commented on in a most commendable manner, and the company is proud of the record established in clearing the large amount of telephone trouble, especially under conditions that appeared almost impossible.

Social Service Workers Plan to Hold Meeting In Macon Next October

A convention of men and women of Georgia, who are interested in social service and probation work, is being planned for the last week in October, in Macon, following the meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs of the state.

Dr. Ainsworth, of the First Methodist church, Macon, is chairman of a committee which will invite interested persons to meet in Macon next week to plan for the October meeting, give it a name and prepare for subjects and speakers. Among those who are expected to attend are Miss Agnes McKinna, of Valdosta, who is starting the work; W. C. Vereen, mayor of Moultrie; Miss Celeste Parish, of Atlanta; J. C. Logan, secretary of Associated Charities in Atlanta; Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, president of the Federation of Women's Clubs in the state; Dr. Ainsworth and Dr. McCord, health commissioner of Rome, who is a brother of Robert B. McCord, superintendent of the Georgia Children's Home society.

The convention will be of the nature of the Conference of Charities and Correction, an institution in many other states. Its object is to get concerted effort and co-operation among people of different towns who are enthusiastic about solving the social problems, but are handicapped in having no uniform way of going at it. Mayor Bridges Smith, of Macon, who is interested in it because it will have caring for floating pauperism as one of its objects, will send invitations to all the mayors of the state.

Miss McKinna hopes that an outcome of the conference will be to establish a home for defective children in the state. "There are thirty-three institutions for children in the state," she says, "and yet there were never more homeless than now. Her work has been that of superintendent of the Children's Home society, and probation officer of the juvenile court in Muscogee county, and she is now probation officer for adults in the circuit of Judge W. E. Thomas.

ECONOMY PLAN PROPOSED

Seawright Wants to Shift City Hall Clerks About.

Alderman Seawright has a plan by which he thinks the city might be saved several thousand dollars each year. His idea is to make the city clerk the chief executive officer over all employees in the city hall excepting the heads of departments. He further outlines his plan as a form of transfer of men from one office to another as they are needed for the work.

He points out that the days for payment of the different city bills might be so arranged as to make this scheme possible. On busy days in each department enough men could be transferred from other departments to take care of the rush and in this way the number of employees could be materially cut, he thinks.

THE BRAIN WORKERS NEED OF CADOMENE

Cadomene Tablets The Great Nerve Tonic

The work of the imagination is costly to the human organism, whether it be the work of brains that establish great industries, invest wonderful patents, write great books for the knowledge of humanity, or the salesmen, clerks, accountants, business men or professional men generally. Nothing causes so much wear and tear of the physical and mental mechanism as the accomplishments of the brain.

The price the brain-worker pays for his achievements is always heavy and often tragic. Many brains and nervous systems sink under the load of daily requirements. When his nerves stop, his work stops, too, and with that his finances and pleasures, both domestic and social. What all these men and women need is the vitalizing influences of Cadomene Tablets, something to feed the brain and nerves, not to temporarily stimulate them.

Cadomene Tablets are a true tonic and builder to the tired, nervous system. It does not lift you up one minute to leave you in the lurch the next. But what good it does is lasting.

Cadomene Tablets contain in highly concentrated form essential vital food for the nerve cells all over the body.

Every Cadomene Tablet taken into the system is paying something for us into the health and strength of our nervous systems, adding to our vitality, endurance and the efficiency of our lives.

On account of its close relation to natural nerve substance, Cadomene is greedily taken up by the nerve cells. The result is a prompt nourishing and tonic action to the whole system and every bodily structure. The mind brightens, muscular tone is increased, all the bodily functions are regulated, sleep is sound and undisturbed, and the recuperative, vitalizing and strengthening effects are soon felt in every structure.

You get, through Cadomene Tablets, the things you want in this world, the pleasures, the luxuries, the comforts. You are master of your body and brain, and the power of accomplishing is yours. No more disappointments and frustrated hopes just at the height of victory.

Every man's success and pleasure lies in his nerve and tissue force and strength.

MOBILIZATION CAMP GETS FEDERAL O. K.

Major Johnson, of U. S. Regulars, Finds Georgia Troops Well Cared For. Need of Equipment.

BY BRITT CRAIG.
(Staff Correspondent.)

Mobilization Camp, July 13.—(Special.)—Major J. C. Johnson, U. S. A., inspector general of the department of the east, detailed here from Charleston to investigate the reports of suffering in Camp Harris because of lack of equipment during the recent rainstorms, made a thorough inspection of the Georgia brigade today and will report that conditions here are ideal in regard to the welfare of the troops.

He has found the Georgians in a sad state of equipment, however, but it is not known whether he proposes to make a report on this subject to the war department.

He will report, it is said, that the Georgia troops are being well cared for; that the camp is one of the most most sanitary, one of the best deported and one of the best conducted in the south.

Major Johnson reached camp just after every unit on the scene had been supplied with sufficient bedding supplies and shelter availed by military authorities when an epidemic impended.

The mustering-in process of the Fifth regiment was halted this afternoon. D company's supplies are not musterable tonight; the band lacks three men, and company B cannot be mustered until Captain Homer Weaver returns from recruiting service in Atlanta.

Other than this, however, the Fifth has made an unusually creditable showing.

FIFTH IS BADLY IN NEED OF CLOTHES AND EQUIPMENT

Mobilization Camp Harris, Ga., July 13.—(Special.)—In such a sad state of equipment that it resembled a nondescript band of straggiers rather than Georgia's proudest body of infantry, the Fifth regiment underwent mustered into the federal service this morning, some of the men wearing shoes that no longer deserved the name; one man sporting bedroom slippers, some in civilians' garb.

Not a few lacked necessary equipment. Several were without shirts, wearing the homespun in which they enlisted three weeks ago. Three or more marched to the muster field in their undershirts. No unit in the entire organization is completely supplied. United States army officials can give no assurance when this will be done. Everything depends upon Washington.

The storehouses contain abundant supplies, but, as an illustration of the inadequacy of this stock, there is not a hat now available beyond six-and-seven-eighths size. There are shirts but shirts too big or too small; underwear the same.

This status prevails throughout the brigade. The Second regiment, which brigade quartermaster staff officers have labored to equip ever since the call to colors weeks ago, is so poorly supplied that Major W. E. Welsh this morning reported to the war department in Washington that "The Second Georgia was 'reasonably' ready for departure for the border."

COFFEE AND IRWIN FOLK HEAR HUGH DORSEY TALK

Strict Law Enforcement Pledge Meets With Enthusiastic Applause.

Ocilla, Ga., July 13.—(Special.)—Hugh M. Dorsey, candidate for governor, spoke to an enthusiastic crowd of approximately eight hundred people in the courthouse here this morning. Mr. Dorsey was introduced by John D. Paulk, one of the leading citizens of Irwin county. Mr. Dorsey's speech was extremely well received and he was enthusiastically applauded many times during the course of his speech.

Especially was this true when he earnestly assured his audience that if elected governor he would stand for the strict enforcement of the law and stated that no convict would be pardoned by him because he was a "gentleman" nor because he had been convicted of a "gentleman's crime."

At the conclusion of the speech hundreds of visitors crowded around Mr. Dorsey and pledged him their earnest support in his race. Reports from all sections of Irwin county, from people who attended the speaking, indicated that Irwin county will give Mr. Dorsey a large majority.

DORSEY SPEAKS TO PACKED HOUSE IN DOUGLAS

Douglas, Ga., July 13.—(Special.)—The first gubernatorial candidate to address the voters of Coffee county was Hugh M. Dorsey, who reached here by automobile from Ocilla at 2:30 this afternoon. He spoke for an hour to a packed house, and during the time held the attention of the entire audience.

He discussed briefly education and the school book proposition, pensions for confederate veterans, the pardoning power of the governor, and at length the disposition of the Western and Atlantic railroad, its extension being advocated if further investigation should prove the proposition feasible. A short lease was urged rather than a long one. The position and views of the other candidates were referred to during the speech.

After adjournment a strong Dorsey club was organized. Broxton, a neighboring town in this county, was represented by a large delegation who came to carry Mr. Dorsey back with them for a speech at that place tonight. They reported a Dorsey club with one hundred and fifty members.

Many predict that Coffee county will give Mr. Dorsey a big majority in the primary, and the interest manifested here strengthens the prediction. Mr. Dorsey goes to Hazlehurst tonight, where he speaks tomorrow.

MAY ASK RECALL OF EICHELBERGER

Reported That Petition, Addressed to the National Anti-Saloon League, Is Being Circulated in Georgia.

It was reported upon reliable authority last night that a movement has been started in Georgia to have the National Anti-Saloon league recall Dr. G. W. Eichelberger as the superintendent of the Georgia branch of the organization. Whether or not charges of any sort will be preferred against the superintendent it is understood that it will be alleged that internal dissension in the league ranks under his administration have become such that the organization cannot operate in harmony under his leadership.

It is stated that a petition is being circulated to ask the national organization to recall the superintendent.

Mr. Newcomb has declined to give the information. In a wire he says that if Mr. Felder will make the querry it will be given prompt answer, but that he will not give the information to any other person.

MRS. G. H. KEELER DIES AT HOME IN MARIETTA

Mrs. George H. Keeler, 65 years old, died at her home in Marietta Thursday morning, after an illness of several weeks. Her death came rather unexpectedly, for although she had been suffering for a long while from bronchial trouble, she appeared much improved on Wednesday.

Mrs. Keller had taken a prominent part in the life of her home city. She had formed a wide circle of friends since coming to Marietta twenty-five years ago from Pennsylvania.

She is survived by her husband, George H. Keeler, who is manager of the large marble works at Marietta; two sons, Milton E. Keeler and Oscar B. Keeler, of Atlanta; three brothers, Charles F. Bane, of Marietta, and Oscar F. and L. B. Bane, of Chicago.

The funeral will be conducted this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Presbyterian church, Dr. J. H. Patton, officiating. The interment will be in the Episcopal cemetery.

AMMONIA TANK BURSTS AND FIVE ARE KILLED

New York, July 13.—Five persons were killed and at least thirty others were injured, many seriously, today when an ammonia tank in a Brooklyn butcher shop exploded, completely wrecking a four-story brick building. So terrific was the blast that scarcely a brick in the building was left standing on another and the victims were crushed under tons of debris. A passing trolley car escaped the avalanche of bricks, but a dozen passengers aboard were injured.

The known dead are Martin Schmidt, owner of the butcher shop; two clerks, the cashier, who was a woman, and a delivery boy. A girl is believed also to have perished.

1,400 DELEGATES HERE FOR C. E. CONVENTION

First All-Southern Christian Endeavor Convention Meets in Atlanta—Officers Elected.

With 1,400 delegates in attendance the first All-Southern Christian Endeavor convention was called to order in this city Thursday afternoon. The convention lasts through Sunday. It is expected that delegates who will arrive tonight will bring the total enlistment up to 1,500.

At the business session of the convention Thursday afternoon at the Ansley hotel, officers for the year were elected. The session Thursday night was held at the Central Presbyterian church. E. P. W. Gates, of Chicago, Ill., field secretary of the Illinois Christian Endeavor union, was the principal speaker.

The officers elected yesterday afternoon will serve for the next twelve months. They were: Duncan B. Curry, of Jacksonville, Fla., chairman; Rev. Charles E. Hill, of Chattanooga, Tenn., vice chairman; Rev. L. E. Brubaker, of Ensley, Ala., secretary; W. Roy Breg, of Dallas, Texas, treasurer; Karl H. Lehman, of Birmingham, Ala., southern states secretary; Wyatt A. Taylor, of Columbia, S. C.; Charles F. Evans, of Lexington, Ky., and A. A. Hyde, of Sherman, Texas, field secretaries.

Telegrams from prominent officials of the country were received and read at the meetings yesterday. President Wilson, Secretary of War Baker and others wired the convention. Secretary Baker was to have spoken last night, but owing to pressing national matters, was forced to remain in Washington.

The delegates were officially welcomed to Atlanta Thursday evening by Rev. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, and John W. Crenshaw, president of the Atlanta Christian Endeavor union. W. Roy Breg, of Dallas, Texas, responded.

The 1917 convention city will be selected tonight. Several cities are bidding for the gathering.

The program today includes three meetings. These will be held at the Central Presbyterian church. A banquet for Christian Endeavor workers will be held Friday night at the Ansley hotel.

private one. My visit here was entirely unofficial."

The ambassador arrived in Baltimore this afternoon from New York. Prior to visiting the submarine he attended a luncheon at the Germania club given by Mayor Preston to the commander of the submarine. He planned to leave later for New York.

REPORTED U-BOAT CARRIED DIAMONDS.

London, July 13.—It has been learned from a good source, says Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent in a dispatch today, that the principal object of the voyage of the German commercial submarine Deutschland to the United States was to convey a consignment of diamonds which it had hitherto been impossible to export.

BOTHERSOME QUESTIONS EXPECTED TO ARISE.

Washington, July 13.—Although the contention of the British and French embassies that the German submarine Deutschland at Baltimore, is a potential warship has had little weight at the state department in view of the department's information that the vessel is purely a merchant ship, officials today saw that other bothersome questions might arise in connection with the under-sea boat's visit.

Already, it was said, consideration is being given to a suggestion that the government should withhold news of the boat's sailing to prevent information from reaching the allies. The department is concerned, too, as to the boat's treatment, if discovered by enemy cruisers in the Atlantic. Under a ruling that the vessel is a merchant craft the state department could not countenance its sinking in violation of international law.

Reports of customs and navy officers on the character of the Deutschland were the subject of a long conference at the state department today between Acting Secretary Polk and members of the government's neutrality board, called in to give informal advice. The department's final decision on the status of the submarine probably will be announced after tomorrow's cabinet meeting.

Captain Hughes, of the navy, and Collector Ryan and Surveyor Steele, of the Baltimore customs house, all of whom examined the vessel, have reported unanimously that she is an unarmed freight carrier.

Government officials generally are satisfied that no legitimate objection can be raised against granting all the privileges of a peaceful merchant craft to the Deutschland. Every precaution is being taken, however, to see that no room is left for questioning the netutrality of the United States, particularly in view of the representations made by the British and French embassies claiming that the submarine is a potential warship.

GEORGIA HIGHWAY BILL MEETS WITH FAVOR

bor, and, in my opinion, the little counties will be glad to get rid of their white convicts. I believe, too, that a lot of the smaller counties will be willing to give up all of their convicts for work on the roads by the state and under the state commission."

Dr. K. G. Matheson, president of the Georgia School of Technology, made a brief address in behalf of the bill, which he began by saying:

"We here in Georgia are fifty years behind the west in the utilization of our public institutions for the public service. Here in the south the public opinion is that the typical college man is an old mossback who sits back in his study and devotes his life to purely academic ends."

He pointed to the colleges and universities of the "middle and far west," where they are the leaders in all public work in connection with better farming, road building, and the like, and their professors help to form the personnel of their highway commissions and other state departments.

"We (meaning the Georgia Tech and the other state educational institutions) want to build up the public utilities in Georgia. We want to render all the service to the state and in the broadest way that we can; we want to give our engineering talent and our best abilities to this work—to really do something for Georgia."

To this end Dr. Matheson strongly recommended that the state avail itself of the services of Professor R. D. Kneal, in charge of the engineering department of the Georgia School of Technology, and a former member of the state highway commission of Montana.

W. T. Winn, of the Fulton county board of commissioners, asked for his opinion upon the pending bill, said:

"Any good bill that is as nearly non-political as it possibly can be made would meet with my approval. And I think the commission should have full authority to employ the best engineer it can get."

Mr. Winn explained that under the federal law, just signed, appropriating $82,000,000 to aid highway commission states of the union in road construction, the appropriation to be distributed over a period of five years, Georgia's total share would be about $2,100,000, of which approximately $138,000 will be paid during the first year, in the event of the creation of a highway commission. The distribution of the entire federal appropriation, he said, would run about $5,000,000 the first year, and increased annually by approximately $5,000,000, so that the fifth year it would amount to $25,000,000.

To the best of his knowledge, he said, the government, in making its allotments of cash to Georgia, will count the value of Georgia's convict labor as cash, and pay this state an annual amount equal to the money and the value of its convict labor the state expends on highway building.

He said, too, that he doesn't think the big and wealthier counties of the state should be "the recipient of this government money to any considerable extent; but the smaller counties should get the bulk of the aid, because they are the ones that need it."

"Make a Start Now."

Clifford Walker, attorney general of Georgia, said:

"Let me suggest that in going over this bill, if you come to any clause which you think objectionable, or that would impair the legality or the effectiveness of the bill, strike it out. But enact a highway commission law—make a start—and if necessary the law can be strengthened from time to time later on. But let me tell you that if you actually make a start, and after you have built, say, eight or ten miles of road in each county, the people never will let you repeal the law. It is needed. Get it on the books and we'll protect it on the other end.

"My little influence, whatever it is, is with you; and in my opinion this is the biggest piece of constructive legislation for Georgia since the war."

Professor Searcy Slack, good roads expert of the engineering department of the University of Georgia, also spoke briefly in behalf of the bill. An interested spectator throughout the hearing was E. Y. Clarke, secretary-manager of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, which played an important part in the drafting of the bill.

The committee is composed of Representative S. M. Turner, of Brooks, chairman; Bion Williams, Meriwether, vice chairman; Andrews, of Fulton; Chancey, of Pulaski; Lane, of Troup; Parker, of Ware; Parks, of Upson; Reiser, of Effingham, and Sheffield, of Early. The only absentees at the meeting were Andrews and Reiser.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF ROBERT RILEY HELD ON THURSDAY

The funeral services of Robert E. Riley, former city marshal, who died at a private hospital Wednesday, where he had been brought from North Carolina, were held at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son. Mr. Riley was a son of the late Captain E. S. Riley, and a grandson of the late Dr. E. S. Lawton. He was a graduate of the Atlanta High school and had many friends in the city. He had been in the mountains of North Carolina for several months, where he had gone for his health, but he became worse, and was brought to Atlanta, dying just as he reached the city.

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the Othine Prescription.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by any druggist under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

For All Complexion Ills

If the skin be colorless, sallow, muddy, over-red, blotchy or freckled, nothing will so surely overcome the condition as ordinary mercolized wax. It literally takes off a bad complexion—absorbs the dead and near-dead particles of surface skin, gently, gradually, causing no inconvenience at all. A new complexion is then in evidence, clear, spotless, delicately soft and beautiful. One ounce of this wax, procurable at any drug-store, will rejuvenate even the worst complexion. It is used like cold cream.

DORSEY C. PITTMAN IS POSITIVE ABOUT WHAT TANLAC DID

Marietta Road Merchant Says He Suffered Agony All Night Long—Wife Sayse "I'm Thankful for What It Has Done for Him."

Dorsey C. Pittman, the well-known merchant on the Marietta road, out of Atlanta, is out with a statement that adds much to what has already been said of the remarkable qualities of Tanlac.

Mr. Pittman is known by just about everybody in his section and he has a large trade with railroad men and farmers of the neighborhood. His high standing and popularity is a matter of common knowledge. Speaking of Tanlac, Mr. Pittman said:

"I've gotten over a mighty serious trouble, and I am positive that Tanlac has done it. Before I took it I would suffer so much with my stomach that I would actually lay awake all night with intense pains, and my relief through this medicine is little short of remarkable.

"I had suffered with these troubles for about two years and it took only three bottles of Tanlac to put me in the fine shape I'm in now. My stomach was in such a bad condition that I would fill up with gas and be miserable after almost every meal, and especially after eating at noon, for sometimes I would suffer for hours.

"I would actually have to gasp for breath during these spells and I'd have awful pains around my heart. My appetite fell off and my general condition was getting little short of alarming.

"I seemed to get relief right from the start after beginning on Tanlac, and I haven't had the slightest trouble with my stomach since. I now have a splendid appetite and I just eat and sleep fine. I eat anything I want, too, and it doesn't give me the slightest trouble. I certainly would advise any one with the troubles I had to try Tanlac."

Mrs. Pittman, who was present in the store when her husband made his statement to the Tanlac representative, was also enthusiastic about the medicine. "I can't begin to tell you how thankful I am that he found it," she said, "for it just distressed me beyond words to see him suffer like he did. When I would come in the store for a little visit in the afternoon he would have those awful spells almost every day. Now I always find him feeling fine, and I know it's because he has taken Tanlac."

EFFORT TO ABOLISH TAX EQUALIZATION

mitted that there have been very material increases in the appropriations of the state since 1913. In answer to an inquiry from Mr. Jones, of Coweta, Senator Stovall stated that he did not know whether there would be a deficit of $200,000 in 1916 due to appropriations made by the legislature last year.

Continuing his discussion of the tax equalization law, Senator Stovall declared that in making a report which showed a material increase in the taxable values of the state, the state tax commissioner had made no distinction between the property tax and the corporation tax, but had reported the entire increase in a lump sum, which allegation Judge Hart, the tax commissioner denied.

Senator Stovall contended that the increase upon the general digest has been about 10 per cent, but that of this amount about 3 or 4 per cent has been from corporations.

Although there had been this increase in taxes, Senator Stovall stated that, through a reduction of the tax rate, the state received $1,000 less in taxes in the year following the enactment of the act than it received in the year previous. Mr. Jones declared that it was against the law for the governor and the comptroller general to fix a tax rate higher than that necessary to produce revenue to meet current appropriations.

Of some $60,000,000 increase in taxable values, Senator Stovall declared the great part was the result of a raise in valuation and not from the discovery of property not heretofore on the digest.

Attacks Operation of Law.

Senator Stovall attacked the operation of the law upon the allegation that the increase of taxable values under the law have come upon realty, while there has been a decrease in the value of invisible property, and he declared that if there has been any effort on the part of the state tax commissioner to bring about an equalization only one instance has come upon his observation. Dr. Stovall declared that the taxable values in some counties have been increased, while in others there has been no increase at all.

Senator Stovall declared that in Elbert county it has cost $750 per year to administer the tax equalization act. He figured that the population of his county is about one one-hundredth of the population of the state, and that, therefore, the total cost to the counties of the state should be in the neighborhood of $75,000 per year.

Mr. Jones, taking Senator Stovall's calculations, pointed out that at a 5-mill rate for the state the newly discovered $80,000,000 worth of taxable values should bring the state about $400,000, at a cost of the $75,000 mentioned by the senator, and that, county rates being something like twice that of the state rate, should bring to the counties a total of some $800,000.

Dr. Stovall contended that the expense of the administration of the law should be borne by the state and not the counties.

In reply to the speech of Senator Stovall, who favored the passage of the repeal bill, Judge Hart spoke.

He declared that, while Senator Stovall had declared before the committee that he was in favor of tax equalization, he had shown himself throughout his legislative record to be the most consistent and bitter enemy such a bill had ever had; that he had fought it from the start and that he had done its cause more damage than any 100 men in the state. Judge Hart further declared that Senator Stovall's logical position is that he is opposed to the tax equalization act for the reason that it saves the people of Georgia about $500,000 per year.

Judge Hart declared that when he accepted the office of state tax commissioner, which had come to him unsolicited, he found that 110 counties in the state were receiving a total of $700,000 more from the treasury of the state than they paid into it. There are now 92 counties, he said, receiving $400,000 more from the treasury of the state than they pay in.

Compares Two Counties.

For a comparison in concrete examples, Judge Hart took Elbert, the county of Senator Stovall, and Coweta, the county of Representative Jones, both of which he assumed to be about equally matched in their people and prosperity.

He showed that Coweta county receives from the state a total of $40,858, and pays into the state treasury a total of $49,977, while Elbert county receives from the state a total of $29,048, and pays into the state treasury $26,442.

Judge Hart declared that the law has not yet succeeded in bringing about that equalization of taxes which should exist, and attributed as one reason that politicians running for office have promised increased appropriations and less taxes; that they have promised all sorts of things for which the people would not have to pay. This, he said, is a theory impracticable of being carried out and is a doctrine which should not be preached.

Judge Hart pointed out that Senator Stovall had referred to the difficulties under which the county boards of tax assessors have to work and that the Elbert county board, like other boards, are over-burdened and are beaten down in their objects. This Judge Hart declared to be easy, and guessed that the Elbert county board was about like "the doctor" wanted it.

"Latest News From Elbert."

Judge Hart then read "the latest news from Elbert," which is a reply from the Elbert board to a circular letter which the tax commissioner had sent out. This reply showed that Elbert county will have a deficit of $300,000 this year under last year's returns.

"That does not exactly line up with what the doctor said," said Judge Hart, "but I guess the doctor was sincere. But this shows you what Elbert county is doing, and meanwhile she is being supported by other counties of this state. If the state is not insolvent now she soon will be at this rate."

"How do you account for the difference in Elbert county's returns this year and last?" a member of the committee asked Judge Hart.

Judge Hart assigned under-valuation as the cause.

It was at this point that the discussion between Judge Hart and Senator Stovall began to become heated.

Have Sought a Remedy.

Senator Stovall demanded to know whether Judge Hart had taken any steps to remedy such a situation.

"I have," answered Judge Hart. "The report which I have just read from Elbert county is the result of such a step. You need not worry, doctor. I did not force the issue during the first year of this act, for the reason that the business of the state was prostrated under the influences of the war. But this year there is no occasion for tax-dodging, and I'll give you no cause to complain about not attempting to equalize taxes. And I know, too, that you have just been wanting me to commit some rash or foolish act in connection with the administration of this law in order that you might jump on it.

"It is wrong that 48 counties of this state should bear the burdens of 92 counties of the state, and I'll correct it if God lets me live.

"It is no time now to drag politics into the affairs of this state, when men are giving up their lives for their country, and when the state is hawking her promises to pay in the money markets in order to get money to pay her teachers and settle her honest debts. It is no time for any such pettifogging now, when every man should be giving his best thought and efforts to the preservation and the upbuilding of the state.

"The doctor says that he is a friend of the school teachers, yet he declares that they are being paid as soon as the state is required to pay them under contract. Does not the doctor draw his money by the day, while the teachers are paid by the month, when they are paid on time? Do not the teachers of this state frequently have to pay interest to money lenders because the state has not paid them promptly? And is this the sort of a friend to the teachers that the doctor is, while the state is even now asking the money markets to take her promises to pay later in order that the teachers may get their money?

Must Bear His Burden.

"It is time for every man to bear his burden, and I do not have to tell you that any shifted burden must fall upon another. If taxation falls on the land, is that a reason to appeal the prejudice of the land owners for the repeal of the tax act? Would not the land owner want the tax equalized?"

Judge Hart declared that tax returns show that the man with about $25 worth of household goods returns it at about 90 cents on the dollar; the man with $1,000 returns it at about 50 cents on the dollar; the man with $100,000 returns it at about 20 cents on the dollar, while the man worth $1,000,000 returns it at about 10 cents on the dollar.

"Should not the poor man, then, want the burden equalized?" continued Judge Hart. "The millionaire is more able to pay his dollars than the poor man his pennies.

"If I have failed in the administration of this law, blame me, but do not blame the law. You have expected me to deal with 2,500,000 people and to visit all the counties. It is not humanly possible. The law is not perfect and I want it amended. You say it is not a perfect law, but say that instead of its being amended and perfected it should be repealed.

"I have never asked for but one thing and that is $5,000 to call together each year the boards of the various counties so that we might exchange ideas and thresh out the complex problems which face us, so that we might stand to the rack, fodder or no fodder. But you have not been willing to stand for even that.

"We could add $50,000,000 to the tax digest in this manner and without this law the digest would be shy $100,000,000 today."

Benefits of the Law.

Judge Hart read resolutions from the board of Brooks county and communications from other counties telling of the benefits of the law and asking that it be not repealed.

Senator Stovall had attacked the law on the grounds of the cost of its administration. Upon this point Judge Hart said:

"Justice ought not to be measured by costs, but if you put it on that sordid plane, the law has paid for itself many times over where it has been intelligently administered. Of course, with Elbert county shrinking $300,000 at the time, it is a different proposition, but I am not referring to that sort of administration."

Concluding his speech, Judge Hart said:

"The doctor says I have not equalized the taxes under this act. I may have failed. All my returns for this year are not in, but I have enough before me to know that this charge cannot be made in the future. I may jeopardize the act, but if this act is killed I propose to die with it."

Tax Assessor Crowder, of Meriwether county, who declared that he had come to the hearing without the knowledge of Judge Hart or of his representatives in the legislature, appeared before the committee and told of the benefits which his county has derived from the law; of the difficulties which face its administration; of how tax-dodgers have threatened him and other officials with defeat at the polls unless they failed in their duty to list their property at proper valuation. Mr. Crowder asked that the law be not repealed, and declared that if it is repealed Meriwether county will go back to the conditions which existed before the law was enacted, when men who owned land valued at $40 and $50 per acre, returned it at $4 and $5 per acre. Mr. Crowder stated that in 1913 Meriwether had taxable values of about $2,700,000 and that in 1916, through the operation of the tax equalization act, Meriwether's taxable values amount to approximately $5,000,000.

Added 59,000 Acres.

"We have added 59,000 acres of unlisted land in Meriwether to the digest," he said, "and we are still uncovering it. We have found much invisible property which was escaping taxation. There is one man in Meriwether—and he was formerly a member of the legislature from Meriwether—who told our board that he did not have any notes, yet we knew at that very time of notes which he held for $17,000. We got that, and now he is working on another scheme to evade paying taxes on his notes. If you repeal this law you will say to the tax-dodgers of Meriwether county, 'Go on, boys, and take care of yourselves just as you please,' and the situation in Meriwether, I judge, is not greatly different from the other counties in the state."

Takes Hart to Task.

Senator Stovall, in rebuttal, took Judge Hart to task for pointing out Elbert county as an example, and stated that it had not been his intention to center attention upon any one county, but that he had reference to all the counties as a whole. Senator Stovall stated that Mr. Tate, his brother-in-law, who is a member of the Elbert county board, is ill and that two members are now doing the work for the entire board.

Senator Stovall made a comparison of Elbert county and Greene county. He said that back in 1914, Greene county had shown an increase of but $230, while Elbert county had shown an increase of $2,000,000.

Senator Stovall stated that he was elected without opposition and went somewhat into the details of the arguments which he had used in his political campaigns in Elbert.

He pointed out that there are corporations in some counties which pay much into the state treasury while there are no such corporations in others, and that, therefore, those counties which have no such corporations ought to come in for their share of their taxes. He declared that, while Elbert county is already receiving more money from the state than she pays in, under the foregoing proposition Elbert ought to receive some $20,000. He declared, however, that Elbert county is no pauper nor beggar and will, therefore, not ask for more.

As to the $8,000 in pensions which Elbert county gets, Senator Stovall declared that Elbert sent her soldiers to the war and that their patriotism should be rewarded.

Judge Hart, in this connection, admitted that the old soldiers should get every cent that is coming to them, but pointed out that Houston county, which he declared to be quite as patriotic as Elbert, pays into the state treasury $1,495 more than it receives from the state, and that Hart county, which is also something of a patriot, pays into the treasury $13,729 more than she receives.

Senator Stovall protested that it is not fair to hold up single counties as examples.

Valuation of Property.

Another feature of the tax equalization act to which Senator Stovall objected was that it deprives a man of the right to place his own valuation on his own property when he turns it in for taxation, and further, that inspectors are used under this law to ascertain what a man's property is worth. He declared that he had seen many men come to the legislature to get increases in appropriations, but had never seen one come to get an increase in taxes.

A warm tilt ensued between Senator Stovall and Judge Hart when the senator asked him whether there had not been a question as to the constitutionality of the law under the due process clause.

Judge Hart said that there had, but that the United States supreme court had ruled the law constitutional.

Senator Stovall declared that he did not believe it was constitutional no matter what the United States supreme court said.

"I understand, doctor, that there is now a vacancy upon the United States supreme court bench," said Judge Hart.

"I do not know whether Judge Hart meant that jokingly or not," said the senator hotly, "but I resent it."

"What is it you resent?" asked Judge Hart.

"Your suggestion that I should take a place upon the supreme court bench."

"You have mistaken me," replied the judge. "If I should make such a suggestion as that, doctor, the people of this state would hold me in utter contempt."

Taxes Show Increase.

In reply to Senator Stovall's allegation that the increase in corporation taxes had not been proportionate with the increase in property taxes, Judge Hart cited that between 1880 and 1915 the property taxes increased 230 per cent, while corporation taxes increased 1,100 per cent.

Following Senator Stovall's speech one of the tax assessors of Brooks county appeared before the board and made an argument against the repeal of the act. He attacked in particular the allegation of Senator Stovall that the law does not provide due process.

"During the first year of the law we had between 12 and 15 arbitrations in Brooks county," he said. "Last year we had but one and we will have that from now until the crack of doom. That protest was filed by a member of the legislature from Brooks county now. He owns timber land which I would be glad to organize a stock company and purchase for $150,000. He turned this property in at $35,000. We raised it to $70,000, and that member of the legislature now has an appeal pending in the Georgia court of appeals. There is your due process."

He declared that he looks upon this law as a business proposition, and that if it does not get proper results it ought to be amended so that it will.

He said that the administration of the law had cost Brooks county $432 per year, and that the law had found property to the extent of $446,000 and had raised values to the extent of $302,000, making a total of increase in taxable values on the digest of $768,000.

Just before the hearing closed Senator Stovall introduced Mrs. W. H. Felton, of Gainesville, who protested before the committee that the law had done her an injustice. She said that she is a widow and that her husband had left her 400 acres of land, which she had turned in at $15 per acre. This, she declared, the board raised to $20, while neighbors on either side of her were allowed to return their property at $10 and $6. She declared that she had found others reduced from $15 to $12.50. She declared that the members of the Hall board have never seen her land, and that they refused to go look at it when she offered to hire a hack for that purpose. She also protested against any law which "puts spies on folks."

tive out of the hands of the enemy—never, I trust, to return to his grasp. We have crossed the watersheds and now victory is beginning to flow in our direction.

"Why have our prospects improved? The answer is, the equipment of our armies has improved enormously and is continuing to improve.

Supplies to Be Overwhelming.

"The British navy until recently has absorbed more than half the metal workers of this country. The task of building new ships and repairing the old ones for the gigantic navy and fitting and equipping them, occupies the energies of a million men. Most of our new factories now are complete; most of the machinery has been set up. Hundreds of thousands of men and women, hitherto unaccustomed to metal and chemical work, have been trained for munitions making.

"Every month we are turning out hundreds of guns and howitzers, light, medium and heavy. Our heavy guns are rolling in at a great rate and we are turning out nearly twice as much ammunition in a single week—and, what is more, nearly three times as much heavy shell—as we fired for the great offensive in September, although the ammunition we expended in that battle was the result of many weary weeks' accumulation. The new factories and workshops we set up have not yet attained one-third their full capacity, but their output is now increasing with great rapidity. Our main difficulties in organization, construction, equipment, labor supply and readjustment have been solved. If officials, employees and workmen keep at it with the same zeal and assiduity as they have hitherto employed our supplies will soon be overwhelming.

"I cannot help thinking that the improvement in the Russian ammunition has been of the greatest and most unpleasant surprises the enemy has sustained. Still our task is but half accomplished. Every great battle furnishes additional proof that this is a war of equipment. More ammunition means more victories and fewer casualties."

CLARKE OR DOWLING TO SUCCEED HUGHES

Washington, July 13.—President Wilson has narrowed the list of men he is considering for appointment to the supreme court to J. H. Clarke, of Cleveland, federal district judge, and Victor J. Dowling, of New York, judge of the New York supreme court. He will make a selection within a few days, and it was indicated tonight that Judge Clarke probably would be given the place.

The president is anxious to make the appointment as soon as possible so that the senate may confirm the new justice at the present session.

FULL DEMAND GRANTED IN WILHELMINA CASE

Claims of American Owners Accepted by Viscount Mersey as Arbitrator.

London, July 13.—Viscount Mersey, arbitrator in the case of the cargo of the American steamship Wilhelmina, which was seized and placed in the prize court February 11, 1915, today awarded £78,400 (approximately $390,000) to the W. L. Green Commission company, of St. Louis, owners of the cargo. This composes virtually the entire amount claimed from the British government by the Green company, which asked for $86,161, while the British government offered only £33,142 and 12 shillings as compensation. Interest at the rate of 5 per cent also will be paid from September 13, 1915, to the date of payment of the award.

The British government already has advanced £21,200 on account. The cargo of the Wilhelmina consisted of food stuffs destined to Hamburg by her consignors. When the seizure occurred it was decided to make the cargo a test case as to the rights of Great Britain to stop foodstuffs proceeding to Germany, but the issue of the order in council of March 11, 1915, made the question an academic one and the case was settled by the government taking upon itself to compensate the claimants by paying for the cargo seized on the basis of loss of profit, which would have been made if the ship had proceeded in due course to Hamburg and by indemnifying the owners for the delay caused to the ship so far as it was due to the action of Great Britain.

Lord Mersey was selected as sole referee jointly by Walter H. Page, the American ambassador, and Foreign Secretary Grey. After the fullest investigation of the facts and consideration of the circumstances surrounding the case Lord Mersey decided the demands of the American owners more nearly approached a just estimate of the damage caused and made the award accordingly.

Lord Mersey presided at the Titanic, Empress of Ireland and Lusitania inquiries.

The Wilhelmina was released on April 21, 1915, and was sunk July 5, 1916, in the harbor of Rio de Janeiro in a collision with a Brazilian naval transport.

A Loggy Liver Deranges the Stomach

A Wineglassful of Tollo Water Gives Relief in Half an Hour

When the liver is clogged, you cannot expect your digestion to be good. The disordered liver prevents the excretion of bile into the bowels, where it acts as a laxative and keeps the system clear of waste matter. The bile backs up into the stomach—causes your food to ferment and distress you—you have headaches or dizzy spells because the bile is being absorbed into the blood.

That is the reason why many people who think they have stomach trouble, indigestion, etc., are really victims of liver trouble.

Even if they do suspect liver trouble, sometimes they make matters worse, by resorting to dangerous "doses" like calomel. Naturally, such "medicines" increase the stomach trouble.

Tollo Water has been provided by Nature for just such cases. It is found at Dawson Springs, a famous Kentucky health resort, and has the property of dissolving the obstruction in the bile tubes, and cleaning the liver and bowels thoroughly without griping or weakening the system.

Go to your druggist and get a 15 cent bottle. Then, drink a third of a tumbler full before breakfast, in a glass of plain drinking water.

In 30 minutes it will flush out the bile tubes in the liver and expel the sour waste from the stomach and bowels and make you feel better than you have for days. Nothing like it for rapid, easy, pleasant results.

An occasional Tollo Water liver bath will keep the system clean and enable the stomach to digest your food without pain or gas.

MORE TINPLATE CHIVALRY.

When the house committee adversely reported the bill to provide for the admission of women to the post-graduate course of the University of Georgia the other day, upon the ground that "old-fashioned and traditional" theories as to woman's sphere forbid it, it put itself in the class with those Georgia lawyers who, recently at Tybee, gave the same antiquated and unsatisfactory reason as to why women should not be admitted to practice law.

It is another case of tinplate chivalry, which neither the women of Georgia nor modern man who is willing to accord her an equal opportunity in business and professional life will appreciate.

Modern social conditions require in many instances that woman shall work to earn her living. Georgia is one of just two or three states that continue to deny her the right to enter any field she may choose and to which her ability and efficiency may call her.

If there is a reason why women should be admitted to practice law in Georgia, there is even greater reason why she should be given the advantages of a university education. Georgia is looking to her to teach and instruct the children of future generations, a service for which there can be no equipment too great.

The university has already extended to woman the master of arts degree, and a few have taken advantage of it. As there seems to have been some doubt with regard to the legality of this action, the chancellor recommended to the board of trustees, and the board recommended to the legislature, that a law be passed removing this doubt, opening the doors of the university to women for the master's degree only, and making it possible for her to equip herself in the highest degree for the service which she stands ready to render the state. The proposal and the reasons for it are dealt with in an admirable article from Isma Dooly, which The Constitution publishes today.

Scarcely had this recommendation been passed on to the legislature when the committee to which the measure was referred reported it adversely in response to the absurd argument based on "traditional and old-fashioned" principles. This is pure buncombe. Georgia says now to her women that they may go to the Industrial college at Milledgeville; that they may go to the Normal School at Athens; that they may go to the agricultural schools in the various congressional districts, and that they may thus equip themselves up to a reasonable degree; but beyond that they cannot go.

And, while denying them this opportunity for preparation, the state is calling upon them all the while to teach its children; to build and mould the characters of the coming generation.

Georgia is not called upon to spend a single copper cent in granting its women this meager privilege. The measure does not ask one dollar's appropriation from the state treasury. If it did, under present conditions, the opponents of the measure might have some possible ground to stand on. But as it is, their only excuse, reduced to its last analysis, is that of the Turk and the Hindoo, who make of women the subordinate, even to slavery.

It is the duty of the state to provide its women with every possible facility for the highest and best equipment for this service. As it is now, those heroic women who persist in the effort, in spite of Georgia's attitude, must go outside the state and spend three or four times the amount of money that should be required of them to get the foundation they should have for the work they expect to do. Hundreds of these women every year are going to institutions in other states, when they could for half the money or less be put into possession right here of the equipment they need for teaching service.

And the marvel of it all is that Georgia legislators should assume this attitude when it costs Georgia nothing to equip her women for higher and better results in the service that is demanded of them.

Let us hope that the legislature, when it comes to a final consideration of this matter, will override the action of the committee and place before the women of Georgia the opportunity that will pave the way for them to render the better service the state demands.

NO HALF-WAY MEASURE.

Compulsory education is either good or it is not. But there is no such thing as half-way compulsory education. Any attempt at trimming through a middle ground would be worse than no law at all.

The Macon Telegraph has well characterized the legislative effort to get around the problem by a dog-fall, in an editorial entitled "High Treason to Georgia." Declaring that it is both wrong and dishonest to trifle in this manner with the state's highest educational interests, The Telegraph says:

> If a real compulsory education law cannot be passed at this session of the general assembly let us drop all talk of a compromise, all ambition to get "as much as we can," and go back to original sources and work there until we get a general assembly that will take the bull by the horns instead of gingerly projecting an ingratiating "so-bossy" in his broad and general direction. No greater calamity to the cause of getting every white child in Georgia into the public schools for a sufficient number of months a year for a sufficient number of years to make him a first-class intelligent citizen could happen than to pass a bill merely to "save our faces." Our faces aren't the issue—the issue is the uneducated children of this state, both now and coming.

It is a question, as The Telegraph points out, to be considered solely upon the basis of the welfare of this state as embodied in the education and uplifting of her children.

If the legislature proposes to deal with compulsory education simply to satisfy a demand for it and to appease the clamor, and because nearly all other states have taken the step, and that Georgia ought, therefore, to fall in line, it might as well drop the matter right where it is and let it alone.

The only theory upon which this matter should be handled is that of the benefit to the state itself through the children who will receive the advantages which the law confers.

It is not a political question; it is anything else but that. If it is proposed to deal with it merely to throw out a sop, and by fooling ourselves, then the less said about it and the less time consumed upon it, the better.

There is no excuse for enacting a bad or faulty or inefficient law upon the theory that it will prove the groundwork or foundation for a better one later on. Legislative duty in this, as in every other matter involving state interest and welfare, is to enact the very best law possible and let the question of improvement depend upon necessity as it develops, and not merely upon a desire to "save its face" in the matter of a political issue.

Georgia's candidates for governor have all spoken for a compulsory education law. They recognize that there is a public demand for it. It has really gone beyond the issue stage, for it is a thing upon which all Georgia is agreed.

If, therefore, we are to have at the hands of the present legislature merely a political dodge, a half-way measure which is worse than none at all, it is better to drop the matter now and get to other important business, passing it on to the hands of another general assembly that is not afraid to enact the real law that will meet the approval of the sentiment of the state.

OUR LYNCHING RECORD.

Calling attention to the importance of helping Georgia abate her lynching record by effective action by the general assembly in the suppression of the mob, Professor George P. Shingler, Jr., of Emory university, has a card directly to the point published in today's Constitution.

Press and pulpit, as he points out, have sounded the alarm, have taken the initiative in behalf of law enforcement along all lines, and it is the unquestioned legislative duty to act now, if we would escape the further effect of the evils which an inexcusable lynching record has brought upon us.

There is now being circulated throughout the United States a pamphlet prepared by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, dealing with a recent lynching in Waco, Texas. It was a case in which there was no doubt as to the guilt of the victim, and yet for the sake of law and order, the communities involved had agreed to make no effort to lynch the culprit, provided the courts took prompt action. The courts met the wishes of the people, promptly convicted the negro and sentenced him to be hanged. Scarcely had sentence been pronounced when the mob gathered, went into the court room and took him from the hands of the authorities of the law, carried him out, tortured and mutilated him, burned him and hanged the body to a tree, while a mob of thousands gathered round him.

The people who read this pamphlet will associate the circumstances of it with the next lynching that occurs in Georgia, or any other southern state. It describes a process in a particular case; the same brutality and callousness will be associated in the mind of the reader with every other lynching.

Thus the evil grows in the minds of the people abroad. But it is more for the sake of ourselves, of our own flesh and blood and the civilization it represents, that we should stand so emphatically for law enforcement that occurrences of this sort would be impossible. While opinion away from home is of grave importance to our commercial future, our own self-respect is even above and beyond that consideration.

It has been said that the laws we have are sufficient to suppress mobs and lynching. That may be true, and yet they do not do it. If it is necessary to bolster political spines with stronger and more imperative laws, then we ought to have them.

What Georgia must do is to put an end to lynching and the mob, and the legislature now in session should not adjourn until it has provided the statutes that will do it. If the state does not act, and if this lynching abomination continues, no power on earth will prevent action by the federal government.

In a Peaceful Submarine.

(A Billville Departure.)

I.

Old woman's for preparedness,
And I know what that must mean,
And as neutral freight to Nowhere
I'll ship in a submarine!
I'll skip,
I'll ship
For a divin' trip
In a peaceful submarine!

II.

For there she is in the woman's camp,
Where the khaki gals are seen,
"Right face about!" I'm a-lightin' out!—
I'm off in a submarine!
I sure will ship
For a deep sea trip
In a peaceful submarine!

III.

For I knew right well how to hike before,
But now I'm sure gone—clean!
Can't hold the fort! so I'll clear the port
In a deep sea submarine!
I'll skip,
I'll skip
For a far down trip
In a peaceful submarine!

IV.

I'll laugh at the storms that break above!
Far down, with the seaweed green,
In peace I'll sleep in the friendly deep,
In a quiet submarine!
I'll sure "lay low"
Where it's still, you know,
In a peaceful submarine!

Back Seat for Indiana.

A Higginsville (Mo.) correspondent of The Kansas City Star says "Missouri is long on authors." It is stated that Joshua Lott is editor of a paper devoted to the interests of the Missouri Lit-er-a-ti, "his duties being to edit the paper, answer correspondence, sweep out, stand off the landlord and swat flies." Here is an extract from an interview with Editor Lott:

"What's the population of Missouri, anyway?"

"About 3½ millions," promptly responded a writer of statistical articles.

"Get out," sneered Mr. Lott. "There are that many authors alone, not counting any of the other trades. Why, man, every train into Higginsville this week has had to carry extra mail coaches! Estimating from the correspondence received by our office at least 90 per cent of Missouri's inhabitants are either writers now or have literary aspirations."

Figuring Chances.

Commenting on the statement of a temperance brother in The St. Louis Globe-Democrat, that "every pint of whisky a man drinks shortens his life by eleven hours, and every pint of beer he drinks he steals twenty-five minutes from his life," the editor of The Adams Eagle says:

"Dunno 'bout that, brother; but if it's true, having drinked enough o' both to drain several rivers dry, and bein' now close on to 82, it's our private opinion that we'll never live to see a hundred."

To a Pessimist.

I.

Cheer up, my pessimistic friend!
Your wrinkled brow, your rueful looks,
Your doleful speech are worse than "spooks,"
That sometimes nightmare dreams attend;
You say: "Alas, I apprehend
That this world's coming to an end;"
'Tis true, when a man dies, my friend,
For him, then, the world's at an end;

II.

"No, this is what I meant to say:
This sinful world's so wrong today,
So full of horrors and of gloom,
'Tis dropping hellward to its doom"—
Thus speaks the pessimistic mind,
Fear and unfaith have made it blind,
Blind to the fact God's sovereign will,
Omnipotent, wise, rules the world still;

III.

The Holy One, the Infinite,
His purpose veils from human sight;
To mysteries of life and death,
We have no clue, save only faith;
We feel, must feel, that we can trust,
A God of love, omniscient, just;
Safe is the world in His right hand,
Trust—though we do not understand.

FORCING GA. WOMEN TO LEAVE STATE TO TAKE POST-GRADUATE COURSE OFFERED FREE AT THE UNIVERSITY

By Isma Dooly.

I resent the excuse of "old fashioned" and "traditional" being given to exonerate the men who voted against the bill which proposed to admit women to the post-graduate department of the University of Georgia. The old-fashioned man—the man who was called by all the world "the southern cavalier," revered all that was superior in woman. His tradition was that she was the most ornamental element in life—that she was to be cultured, to be accomplished, and even her domestic training was to be carried to the artistic degree. In the old days one of the dramatic scenes pictured in literature and in the romance of those times was when the "little miss" went off to school, went to learn all the graces which she had not acquired in the home. And it was not only the little miss of the "principality of the plantation" who went, but the daughter of the man who managed the farm, and the daughter of every tenant who could save and struggle to make the money to send the daughter where she should become the well-rounded, accomplished woman; the well-equipped companion, the reigning being of the home. These were the women, mothers of the men, who carried the south through her days of reconstruction; who brought the south to the beginning of her new life.

The Highest Type.

These were the women who, when they lost husbands, fathers, brothers, negroes, lands, and all their worldly possessions, went forth to work, to keep the home together; to help to train and educate the younger children. They were the teachers in the Sunday schools and day schools. They were the first women writers—the first ones to contribute to the literature of the country through the press, north and south, and to promote knowledge of the higher things.

It was the impression of this woman of yesterday who was educated in a knowledge of the higher things, which had its influence no doubt upon the chancellor of the University of Georgia, when, in his desire to perpetuate the higher culture of the women of his state, he recommended to the trustees of the university at their last meeting, that the post-graduate course of the university be opened to women.

No one knows better than Chancellor Barrow the demands of modern education on the woman of today. Not only in the school, but in the home, a broader knowledge of life is being required of her. The higher citizenship of Georgia in their efforts to reduce the shameful quota of illiteracy are straining every point to bring every department of education to the highest standard. To do this the first and most potent factor is the good teacher. Seven-tenths of the teachers in Georgia are women. To them is entrusted the training of the male and female child of the state. She is told her pay, her promotion, depends upon her efficiency. To acquire that efficiency she sets out. She notes that the women holding the highest faculty positions, who are making strides in their profession, are those who have the advantages of a higher education than women have in Georgia today to become pedagogists. But they have had to go out of their state to get that training in order to come back to Georgia and teach the children of Georgia the way they should be taught.

Yet, in the University of Georgia there is that department—the post-graduate course established in 1910—which, in a year's time, would give the woman completing the course the same advantage she would have in other universities outside of her state, where she must struggle to raise the money to go.

Why This Injustice?

Why should this injustice be dealt out to the women of Georgia? Why must the women of Georgia who are being equipped to teach the children of Georgia be denied the training in their own state which they need? If women were no longer to teach in Georgia schools; if they had proven failures as teachers, or if opening the post-graduated course to women required an increased expense to the university, one might understand a momentary hesitation about granting them the privilege. But with the demand for the woman teacher on the increase, with Georgia's illiteracy not on the decrease, one can scarcely understand why any obstacle should be put in the way of the women of Georgia getting every opportunity of education being granted to women anywhere in the civilized world.

Someone has brought forth the idea of coeducation as an obstacle in this matter of proposing to open the post-graduate department of the university to women.

This idea comes so near being a reflection on the virtue of the young men and women of Georgia earnestly desiring to equip themselves the better for life through the opportunities of their own university, I will not by another word initiate such an argument. The mere suggeston is a base injustice.

Bill Not Considered.

I can not believe that those legislators who voted against the bill realized the significance of their act. I can not believe they realized the great expense they put upon the young women whom they look to to train and educate the children of the state.

For years this disadvantage under which the young teachers of the state labor becomes more apparent, and the appeals made to agencies who are trying to help them become the more numerous.

In looking over the annual report of the student aid committee of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, I noted among the many items a letter from a young Georgia girl who, while educating herself, has had to help support her family. I have asked Mrs. H. B. Wey, the chairman of the committee, to permit me to use that item of her report and also the letter which so dramatically presents the struggle girls of Georgia have to equip themselves as teachers.

The Report.

August 12, 1912—A young woman of 19, belonging to a large family, applies for a loan of $100 to help meet expenses at Athens State Normal.

September, 1912—Loan having been granted, she enters senior class.

June, 1913—She receives diploma and accepts a position as a primary teacher.

1913-14-15—Teaches with success, but unable to make payments on loan as planned because she assisted in meeting the expense of serious and protracted illness in the family.

1915-16—Taught in a high school and makes payments reducing debt.

June 22, 1916—The following letter received:

"My Dear Mrs. Wey: For several years it has been necessary for me to help the family, and with the small salary I received I have not been able to pay my debt as soon as I intended. I think now that I can pay the balance in the early fall. I regret that I cannot pay it now, but after my year's work I found that I had only $5.40 for my expenses until I begin drawing a salary again.

"Quite as a surprise I was elected principal of —— high school at a salary of $85, which meant a $35 raise for me. I am to have entire charge of the school and teach the ninth and tenth grades. It is going to be very hard for me, but I am studying this summer and am going to work hard to make it a success. There has never been a lady principal there before, and I am likely to have trouble, but I'm going to take it anyway. Sincerely yours,

"——————."

Summary of Facts Stated.

1. A pressing need.
2. A remedy applied.
3. Faithful and successful work rewarded by steady promotion and increase of salary.
4. A three years' struggle to meet obligations.
5. A debt cancelled.
6. $100 returned to treasury available for another loan.

Club Women and Friends! Hardworking and determined girls of Georgia can now, and for years to come, bring to us their needs. The Student Aid Foundation, mothered by the Federation, supplies the means to meet legitimate calls for assistance. The result: good teaching, useful and honest living, and the same kind of help passed on to others. Not only this, but, all unknown to most of you, you are generating and setting to work a power which, little by litte, here and there, is striking telling blows against illiteracy in Georgia.

We are lining up for another year's campaign in "preparedness." Now is a good time to send a gift or a pledge to the foundation so that our line may not only be long but strong. Faithfully yours,

MRS. H. B. WEY.

Just One Case.

The above case is but one of many, and as this ambitious young woman continues her career she is going to feel the need of more equipment to meet the demands made upon her; she is going to need probably the very course the post-graduate department of her own university can give her. But, according to the attitude of Georgia at present toward her women, this young woman and all others striving to equip themselves to teach the children of Georgia, will have to go outside of their state to get the equipment.

Concerning Legislation On Lynching by the General Assembly

Editor Constitution: "Of the making of laws there is no end." The unenviable reputation gained by our beloved commonwealth in having charged against her honor and her law-abiding citizens the largest number of lynchings should not be allowed to remain. The press and pulpit have sounded the alarm; the body of religious educators in Birmingham assembled have started a campaign of law and order and decried lynchings in strongest terms.

The laws of recent times empowering the governor to change jurisdiction in any case where he thinks lawlessness is likely to break out and the promise of every judge to hold special sessions of court whenever the unspeakable crime is committed or other crimes likely to enrage and arouse the heated passions of the people, would seem to answer all purposes. But in the face of the above facts, especially, the record grows. Something else is radically wrong to permit such a deplorable state of affairs to continue. If the history of our lynchings is studied the fact is revealed that the offender was either seized by an angry mob from the sheriff and posse or else the offender was caught by such a mob and dealt with according to the dictates of overwrought passions. No one is to be blamed for such an action. It is "regrettable," of course; a "shame," a "disgrace!" What evidently is lacking one need not go very far to find—official responsibility.

South Carolina has abated the disgrace by passing a very salutary statute requiring payment to the family of the lynched, such payment originating in the county where the crime against civilization was committed. Georgia need not duplicate this statute. Another way out can certainly be found by our law-making body.

It may not be as evident to many of our citizens the extent and harm of this wave of lawlessness which is allowed to run riot in our beloved state. A few observations and instances will suffice. Last summer in Chicago, for example, the whole south was defamed by the press and even in the street talk for what happened in Georgia. Many hard things were written, but there was no way to combat it by more talk. We have had quite a sufficiency of that on both sides of the question. We need action; and now is the time, while we are sober minded, to have it done by the present general assembly. Later, during the year, the state of Texas required from our governor a guarantee for a fair trial of certain parties before extradition papers would be granted. Another case in our state arising in the federal courts was threatened with change of jurisdiction outside of the state by the attorney general of the United States, a southern democrat, because, as he openly expressed, a fair trial could not be had in Georgia. It was only through vigorous representation that such a blow was not dealt our citizenship.

A prominent attorney pointed out quite conclusively the shoals to which we are drifting by our neglect to amend our ways—Federal intervention!

We have the resources in Georgia that are latent and we are publishing such things before the world in a commendable fashion. If we would have our untouched resources developed by respectable home-makers we must do something to remove the stain that rests upon the escutcheon of our fair state. Let us show to the world that intelligence and justice reign in Georgia and that we propose to show by deeds that we are a part and parcel of this great union of indestructible states, contributing our portion to the upbuilding of humanity and the permanence of free government.

Mrs. Hubbard Says Legislators Bound by Party Platform

Editor Constitution: In your editorial column of July 9 appears a very strong defense of the bill permitting women lawyers in Georgia. In that article the question is asked: "When will that opportunity come?" In keeping with that question are a few others. When will compulsory education be the law in Georgia? When will dental inspection become law? When will the mothers' pension bill be law? When will students of any age or sex be permitted to take post-graduate courses at the University of Georgia? When will the age of consent be raised from 10 years? How long will the state permit the prostitution of the marriage vow by permitting little children to enter into the marriage state? Children should be compelled by the state to be in school five or six hours a day and the remaining time taught wholesome play. Some great social worker has said, if more prayerful thought were given to the state's amusements, less necessity would there be for the vexing problems of the care of the insane and criminal.

These questions have been asked from a mother-heart in the interest of humanity—and selfishly, too, for the child in my home will unfold and grow to useful citizenship only in proportion that the children of the community are developed by the state into useful citizens. The lack of this legislation suggested has caused and will cause many pitfalls for my child and for the children of the state.

There is not one word of censure for the men who have not enacted into the law these needs—they have done their very best. They were only the fathers, the brothers, the husbands—we need for the home and family problems the assistance and judgment of the entire family. We need among the electorate the mothers, the sisters, the wives.

In bringing this about we are only listening to the words of wisdom written in Proverbs 31. Modern industries are so diversified that the perfect wife may not "look well to the ways of her household" and give the protection to her home that the woman of King Solomon's time did without that powerful defender of the home, the ballot, for politics has entered every crevice of the home, and to be as efficient and as true to her home as the woman of old she must enter politics. Will not the members of the Georgia legislature assist us by submitting a constitutional amendment to the voters of the state? I hardly know why I ask this question, for President Wilson, on June 22, referring to the suffrage plank in the democratic platform, said: "I wish to join with my fellow democrats in recommending to the several states that they extend the suffrage to women upon the same terms as to men."

The state legislator who votes against submission of a woman suffrage amendment is a bolter of his party platform.

FOES OF TAX LAW LOSE FIRST ROUND

House Declines to Assign Bill to Repeal Statute as Special and Continuing Order on Calendar.

Foes of the state tax equalization law as it stands, and supporters of the pending house bill providing for its repeal, suffered their initial defeat on the floor of the house yesterday upon the first test vote to which the repeal bill has been subjected, when, by the margin of six votes, the house rejected the report of the committee on rules to assign the measure as a special and continuing order on the calendar.

Of the total membership of 189, 166 votes were cast—120 for the assignment of the repeal bill, 46 against it. Since the measure to carry would require a two-thirds vote of the entire membership, or 126 votes, the opponents of the repeal measure won by six votes.

Sheppard, of Sumter, gave notice of a motion to reconsider the action of the house, and it is expected that the question will come up again this morning on this motion to be threshed out anew.

The house voted overwhelmingly not to assign the woman suffrage bill on the calendar.

Debate Is Spirited.

Debate upon the committee proposal to set the tax repeal bill as a special and continuing order was the most spirited and acrimonious that the members of the house have engaged in thus far during the session.

In explaining his vote against assigning the repeal bill, Representative Stark, of Jackson, recited instances in his county in which extensive land owners have failed to give in fair statements of their holdings, in order to evade taxation. One of these, he said, concerned a man who failed to make return on 2,000 acres of land owned by him, and another instance involved 927 acres of land which its owner failed to give in.

"The rich men of Georgia," he declared, "the great land holders, are the men who have been hit by this tax equalization bill, and they are the ones who are against it. I vote 'no!'"

Urges Defeat of Bill.

Representative Davis, of Laurens, made an impassioned plea for the overthrow of the repeal bill.

"What I want to see done," he said, "is the enactment of amendments to the present law to strengthen it; that's what is needed by the people of Georgia—not to repeal it."

Sheppard, of Sumter, speaking for the repeal, declared that Georgia corporations had, under the existing law, paid $40,000 less taxes, and the farmers, since it went into effect, had paid $80,000 more.

This was denied by Fullbright, of Burke, who spoke against the repeal bill. Also speaking against the assigning of the repeal bill was Garland M. Jones, of Coweta.

Representatives Bale, of Floyd; Stovall, of McDuffie; Taylor, of Monroe; Parks, of Upson, all spoke in favor of assigning the bill on the calendar.

A somewhat heated debate preceded the vote on the committee's report to assign the woman suffrage bill as a special and continuing order. The gallery contained perhaps fifty women who had come to note what might happen to their measure, and when, in the course of a speech in behalf of the act, Representative Wohlwender, of Muscogee, its author, made a particularly telling point, the onlooking women above burst forth in cheers, and the speaker pounded loudly for order.

The only speech against the measure was made by Representative Stark, of Jackson, who declared last week from the floor that he was against it. He characterized the "votes for women" agitation as a "fool idea born in and transplanted from the far west." Replying to Wohlwender's allusion to the fact that planks favorable to woman suffrage have been placed in the national democratic and republican platforms, Mr. Stark said:

"Fool Western Idea."

"Yes, and if the democratic party goes down to defeat in November it will be because of its trying to tack on this fool western idea."

The assignment of the bill was lost, 21 to 91.

The rules committee's recommendation that the bill to tax soft drinks be set as a special and continuing order was voted down; and by a vote of 114 to 22 the bill providing for the abolishing of fees for solicitor generals was given a place on the calendar. The only speech made in this connection was a short one by Representative Neill, of Muscogee, who favored it.

A senate resolution urging President Wilson to recommend that the government establish at Mussel Shoals, Ala., a nitrate plant, for the manufacture of nitrate for munitions purposes in case of war and for fertilizer during peace times, was concurred in by the house.

Representative J. E. Sheppard, of Sumter, introduced a bill to compel counties employing convicts for road work be compelled, before receiving the services of such convicts, to pay any accrued cost connected with their conviction.

A bill was introduced by Representative J. H. Evans, of Screven, which permit confederate veterans to fish and hunt at will in the state of Georgia, immune from any license fee or hunting or fishing tax whatever.

Representative J. W. Gillam, of Fannin, introduced a herd law, "to encourage the improvement of live stock by preventing the running at large of bulls and boars" anywhere in the state.

The bill to create Cook county is first on the calendar for this morning, and immediately it is disposed of—either voted upon or continued—probably one of the education bills of which about six are pending, will be taken up.

Important Bills Considered By Committees of Assembly

A hearing on the bill to create Peach county from portions including the western part of Houston and eastern Macon was held on the house floor yesterday before the committee on constitutional amendments, but no action will be taken upon the bill until next Tuesday, when a further hearing will be held.

A mild sensation was precipitated in the committee meeting. Among the opposition to Peach county is Senator McCrory, who appeared at the meeting and, in argument, charged that Speaker Pro Tem. Robert LeSeuer, a member of the committee hearing the bill, had traded with the Peach county advocates to the extent of supporting their bill if they would keep out of Crawford county in designing the proposed new county; that he was willing to see Houston and Macon county cut, but not any of Crawford county.

Mr. LeSeuer denied the statement and, while Mr. McCrory was explaining that he meant no reflection on the member of the committee at all, Mr. Wohlwender moved for an executive session to break up the colloquy, but it ended anyway and the hearing went on.

Mr. Nunn, of Houston, argued against the proposed new county.

The committee postponed action on the bill until after the proposed Simmons county measure is heard next Monday, when recommendation will be made on both bills. Simmons county would cut territory from Houston and Dooly.

DEKALB COUNTY BILL IS KILLED.

The bill of Representative Steele to create a commission of five to take the place of the one present commissioner, who would be a member of the new commission in DeKalb county, was killed in the house committee on counties and county matters Thursday afternoon.

An open hearing on the bill was held Tuesday afternoon, and about five hundred people were present. Thursday's session of the committee was executive.

COUNTY BILL IS CONSIDERED.

The house committee on counties and county matters Thursday recommended favorably the bill to repeal the exrevenues in Telfair county. It was introduced by Representative Cook.

Other bills favorably recommended isting act and create a new act to establish a commission of roads and were one by Heath and Fullbright, abolishing the office of treasurer of Burke county, and providing a depository for county moneys, and one to make changes in the commission of roads and revenues in Floyd county, similar to the Cook bill.

Opponents of the bill of Representative Beck to abolish the commission on roads and bridges and create a board of supervisors in Murray county were heard. Jesse M. Sellers, attorney and secretary for the commissioners, represented the chamber of commerce of Chattsworth, which is opposed to the bill. Changing the county seat to Chattsworth was given by R. M. Gudger as the cause of dissension in the county. Mr. Beck's bill names definitely five men to succeed the commissioners, and this does not meet the approval of the opposition. Mr. Beck will draw an amendment to the bill, providing that a referendum be held in the primaries of September 27, thus keeping offices elective as heretofore, rather than created by legislation.

SIGNBOARDS ARE FAVORED.

All counties of the state will be required to erect signboards at the intersection of all public roads in the counties, showing the name of the largest town to which the roads lead and the distance in miles, according to a bill by Senator Turner, of the twenty-first, which was reported favorably by the house committee on county matters Thursday.

PRINTING COMMITTEE.

The senate public printing committee Thursday afternoon recommended for passage the Eakes bill to create the office of state purchasing agent and superintendent of public printing. Parts of the bill were opposed by President Byrd, of the Byrd Printing company, and associates.

The Adams bill, a counter measure, proposing the comptroller general, secretary of state and state treasurer as the state printing commission with authority to employ a superintendent, has been tabled in the senate. The Eakes bill would have the superintendent and purchasing agent appointed by the governor and under bond. In the committee argument the recent shortage in the office of public buildings keeper and the numerous blank pages included in the pamphlet matter ordered published for the state, which it is alleged are charged for, were used as illustrations.

MILITARY CODE REVISION.

The special committee, provided for in a joint legislative resolution, to draw a bill revising the Georgia military code to conform with the federal service bill recently enacted by congress, was announced Thursday as follows: Senator H. M. Fletcher, of the twenty-sixth; Representatives Croft, Wheatley, of Sumter, and W. H. Conner, of Spalding; Judge Advocate General Ferris T. Cann, of Savannah, and Adjutant General J. Van Holt Nash.

Judge Cann is expected in Atlanta today and an immediate meeting of the committee will be called. It is the purpose to draw the bill in time to pass it at this session of the legislature.

AUDIT COMMITTEE.

The meeting of the special joint committee, of which Senator Rad Turner is chairman, appointed to investigate the recommendations of Special Auditor Metz's report on the state department, was an informal affair Thursday afternoon. Auditor Metz was present.

The committee discussed the several departments adversely reported on, especially the manner of report made on the agricultural department and the entomological department, and the discovery of a discrepancy of about $2,000 found by auditor, and it was decided that the resolution creating the committee does not give it wide enough latitude. For that reason the house and senate will be asked tomorrow to give the committee power to fully investigate the report and its recommendations as well as to examine heads of the various departments; to have a stenographic copy of the hearing made and to invite the head of each department to appear before the committee and discuss the report as made.

Chairman Turner says there will be no investigation of the matter of the reported ofer to sell to each department adversely reported on a special business system. Mr. Turner says the work of the committee will adhere strictly to the special audit and what it contains, and will include only any statement or comment heads of the departments or institutions may care to make to the committee. On these the committee will make up its recommendations.

QUADRENNIAL TERM PLAN TABLED IN THE SENATE

Bill to Change Governor's Term Lacks Two Votes of Constitutional Majority.

With the vote in the senate standing 28 to 11 in favor of Senator Z. V. Peacock's bill providing for quadrennial terms for the governor of Georgia, only two votes shy of the requisite constitutional majority for the passage of an amendment to the constitution, the author of the measure yesterday succeeded in having the measure tabled. At the time the vote was taken on the bill two senators favoring quadrennial terms for the governor without the right to succeed himself, were absent from the senate chamber. Senator Peacock's bill providing for biennial sessions of the legislature was also tabled upon motion of Senator Boykin. An attempt will probably be made to put these bills on their passage today.

Senator Lawrence's bill amending the code so as to allow legacies of entire estates to educational institutions and so amended as to apply to all educational institutions was lost by a vote of 17 to 24.

The motion of Senator Boykin, of the seventeenth, to reconsider the action of the senate of Tuesday in killing Senator Walker's bill providing for an increase in the expenses allowed the governer's office from $6,000 to $8,000 was passed by vote of 15 to 13.

Having as its object the relief of the legislature in handling the numerous local bills brought before the general assembly and providing that such bills shall be disposed of by the superior courts of the state, Senator E. T. Moon's bill was lost by a vote of 14 to 25.

Two bills, introduced by Senators Dobbs and McLaughlin, giving the railroad commission a wider scope of authority in regard to the W. & A. railroad, were unanimously passed.

Negro Electrocuted.

Nashville, Tenn., July 13.—The electric chair at the state prison was used for the first time at daybreak this morning, when Julius Morgan, a negro, convicted of criminal assault, committed near Dyersburg, was electrocuted. The negro confessed his guilt and met death with composure.

MEXICAN REFUGEE HERE

Left Mine in Time to Reach the Sumner.

F. T. Weesner, one of the refugees who recently escaped from Mexico, on the Sumner, is at the Scoville hotel for a few days.

Mr. Weesner has been for the past six years in the employ of a large mining company in Mexico. He says that on the day the Carranza government issued a proclamation to the effect that no foreigner would be allowed to leave he left on his own mining train and was able to reach the Sumner at Vera Cruz.

Mr. Weesner said his firm had no trouble save some minor worries over pay for their Mexican employees, until the mobilization of the militia. He stated that save for some wholesale looting he saw no acts of violence.

The 120-acre, 18-hole, golf course is the finest in the South—it is a blue grass course. All the water used at the Inn comes from the slopes of Mount Mitchell, the highest mountain east of the Rockies, nearly seven thousand feet altitude. The milk and cream come from Biltmore Dairy on the estate of the late Geo. W. Vanderbilt.

It is the cleanest, most sanitary hotel ever built. Every floor is tile. Every bedroom has Mosaic tile covered with French rugs made at Aubusson, France. The foods are the finest money can buy. The kitchen is spotless white tile to the roof and pure white Mosaic tile floors. The buildings are built of great mountain boulders—some of the walls are five feet thick.

We are three and a half miles from the railroad. The street cars are not allowed to come near enough to be heard. We burn coke—not soft coal. Automobiles not allowed near the building during the night. Thus we have no smoke, no dust, no train noise. We have pure air, commonsense, digestible food, quiet in the bedrooms at night, the finest Orchestra outside of New York and Boston, a great organ, and an atmosphere where refined people and busy business men with their families find great comfort and a good time.

OFFICER MAILED LUNCH

And Now City Officials Want to Know Why.

One member of the police force caused some trouble for the postal authorities Thursday and gave members of the city clerk's office a great deal of amusement.

He came to the city hall during the morning and men in the clerk's office saw him go to the large package box in the hall. Opening this he inserted a package and then left.

Later in the day the postman arrived to clear the box. He also left, but later returned bearing the package the officer had mailed.

He told men in the clerk's office that he had turned the bundle over to the inspector. No stamps were found on it and on being opened it was seen to contain lunch.

Not having any use for it and being unable to mail it he was instructed to return it to the city hall. He, accordingly, did this, giving it to a man in the city clerk's office.

The officer has not been seen since and his package of lunch is still with the city clerk awaiting for a claimant.

NO RAIN EXPECTED TODAY

Temperature Remains About the Same, Says Forecaster.

Atlantans may rest assured that for today and tomorrow they will not be annoyed by even a slight rain, according to the forecast of the local weather bureau. Thursday heavy clouds appeared in the sky several times and it was beginning to look as if the city was in for another long rainy period.

But the weather man says this fear has no foundation. He asserts that despite the appearance of the skies there will be no rain. Furthermore, he says the temperature will remain about the same.

KENNEDY ASKS REPORTS

Anxious for Records of Infantile Paralysis Cases.

Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer, has no fear of an epidemic of infantile paralysis in this city, but he has mailed letters to the physicians of Atlanta asking that they make a report to him of any cases or suspected cases. He has heard of no new cases since those of the first two days of this week. He says there are almost always one or two in the city.

CONVICT'S ARM BROKEN

Was Watching Ball Game at the Time of the Accident.

R. B. Patterson, serving a two-year term in the federal prison for counterfeiting, broke his arm a short time ago while sitting on a wheelbarrow watching a ball game at the institution. When his wrist began to pain he was taken to the Grady hospital and an X-ray examination made. It was then found that his arm had been broken by the fall.

NO QUORUM PRESENT HEARING POSTPONED

Trading Stamp Hearing Is Postponed a Week—Business Men Here to Appear Before the Committee Told "No Quorum Present."

Representative business men from all sections of the state who had come to Atlanta to appear before the committee on the trading stamp bill yesterday were informed that the hearing would be postponed one week, as it was impossible to get together a quorum of the members for the hearing. The bill was introduced by Representatives John Hutchson and Senator E. T. Moon and prohibits the use of trading stamps, coupons and other "profit-sharing" schemes.

The education committee of the senate reported adversely Senator McCrory's bill to make the office of member of the state board of school commissioners elective. Senator McCrory will file a minority report.

The bill of Representatives Atkinson, Andrews and Blackburn, of Fulton, which has been passed by the house, increasing the salary of the marshal of the city court of Fulton county from $1,800 to $2,100 per annum, was reported favorably.

Two bills introduced by President G. Ogden Persons radically changing the present method of obtaining revenue for the maintenance of the public schools of the state were unanimously reported favorably.

Both the bills are constitutional amendments. The first limits the state appropriation to the common school fund to two mills on the dollar and the other requires every county of the state to levy at least a two-mills tax for the maintenance of the schools.

President Persons, in support of his bills, said that today Georgia ranks eleventh in the amount given to the support of its common schools and that the bill limiting the state appropriation would not materially reduce this amount. He pointed out that many states maintain their schools chiefly by local or county taxation and that this was the best and fairest method. He showed that there were only 39 counties in the state which were paying into the state treasurer more than they were drawing out and that all the rest were drawing out more than they were putting in.

Atlanta Crematory Would Serve as Ark, Say City Officials

It has been jokingly suggested by city officials that the crematory be made over into an ark.

George C. Spence, attorney for the Destructor company who built the plant, asserts that it would stand any kind of strain.

Take the chimney off and it would float, says Councilman Ashley.

Chief Jentzen, of the sanitary department, who has charge of the crematory and the work of burning the city's garbage, is having troubles of his own just now with the large amount of wet, soggy material he is forced to burn in the furnaces. But he says it is doing the work and he has no kick to make.

NINTH STRAIGHT ON WRONG SIDE

Edited by DICK JEMISON

As a Pitcher Lafitte Is Fine Young Dentist; Ninth Straight Defeat

By Herman Reiter.

New Orleans, La., July 13.—Tommy McMillan's failure to play a squeeze bunt 15 feet in the air and back of the pitcher's mound, beat Ed Lafitte and his Cracker mates today, New Orleans copping the first of five-game series, 9 to 3.

McMillan's error of judgment paved the way for a great Pelican rally, in which twelve men went to the bat and eight counted. Manager Frank finally yanked the dentist and sent Brennan to the rescue, but Addie arrived too late, and subsequent phenomenal catches snagged two or three Atlanta rallies. With better support Lafitte would have probably won his game handily. He outpitched Brenton, but the Pel hurler was the most lucky of the two.

The Crackers gave Lafitte a run lead in the opening frame, when Thrasher snipped a double down the third base line and counted on Yerkes' one-baser to left.

New Orleans tied it up in the fourth, when McMillan's error put Allison on first, and promenaded Edmondson with two gone. A double steal succeeded, McMillan missing Perkins' throw, which beat Edmondson five feet, Allison registering.

The Big Fifth.

The fifth found Lafitte walking Thomas, and Bluhm tripled to center. Higgins' squeeze bunt, which McMillan started too late for, scored Bluhm and Brenton's fluke spiral fell safe back of third. Allison got a pass and Knaupp tripled. Lafitte walked Stansbury. Brennan went in at this stage, and on Edmondson's infield out Knaupp scored. Sylvester singled, Stansbury scoring, but Brennan got Bluhm and Brenton out on long spirals, retiring the side.

The Crackers made a great rally in the sixth. Thrasher got a pass and Moran scratched a hit to Stansbury. Yerkes shot a line drive to right, which Edmondson leaped into the air and snapped with one paw. Lennox was safe on Allison's error, Thrasher scoring and Moran following him home on Munch's line drive over second. Perkins singled, filling the bags, but McDonald, pinch-hitting for McMillan, boosted to Thomas and Sylvester made a great catch of Brennan's line drive.

The Crackers were retired in order in the next three frames.

Some Notes.

Manager Frank had Wilson in uniform and he pitched to the batters during practice. Wilson looked pretty good, and may work in one of the games here.

Clancy went off the pay roll temporarily as soon as McDonald reported.

Frank had fifteen men in uniform, violating the player limit, but the Pels did not object, fearing the Dutchman had a card up his sleeve.

Yerkes was hit in the head by Brenton in the first inning, the Pel hurler trying to pick him off second.

Grandstand fans criticised Kerin severely for his decisions on balls and strikes, although his arbiting was fair to both sides.

McMillan left the game because of the extreme heat. All of the Crackers seemed to suffer, and Frank bought up a lot of ice to try and keep them cool.

Perry and Dillinger are probable hurlers for Friday's game. A doubleheader will be played Sunday.

GOLFERS QUALIFY FOR METRO TITLE IN THUNDER STORM

Garden City, N. Y., July 13.—Seventy-six players with scores of 176 and less qualified in today's medal play at 36 holes, to continue in another double round on the Garden City club's links tomorrow for the Metropolitan Golf association's open championship. Five of the dozen amateurs who competed today are on the qualified list and one of them, Frank W. Dyer, Montclair, N. J., is tied for first place with Charles H. Hoffner, professional of the Philmont club, of Philadelphia, each having a score of 155 for 36 holes.

Dyer, who won the Pennsylvania state championship title last year, played consistently in both rounds, his scores being 77 and 78. Hoffner had a 75 in the early round.

Among the amateurs who retired were Walter J. Travis and Max R. Marston. Alex Smith, the professional, who won this event on four previous occasions, did not go out in the afternoon as he took 82 in the first round.

Following is the list of the leaders with their totals for today's play:

ROTARIANS COMING TO ATLANTA TODAY, CINCINNATI-BOUND

Some forty prominent Rotarians of the south representing the Rotary clubs of nine nearby cities, will arrive in Atlanta today on their way to the International Convention of Rotary Clubs, to be held in Cincinnati next week.

In the various parties coming into the city today there will be three from Augusta, five from Spartanburg, six from Greenville, seven from Tampa, one from Havana, eight from Jacksonville, seven from Savannah, one from Macon and one from Columbus.

The members of the Atlanta Rotary club have planned to meet these various Rotary delegates as they reach the city on different trains in automobiles, and all who want to play golf will be taken immediately to the golf links and turned over to their favorite game. Those who have no desire to indulge in golf will be given automobile rides around the city.

At 1 o'clock all of the delegates who are in the city at that hour, will be entertained at a special luncheon at the Piedmont hotel, given by the Atlanta Rotary club.

As is well known, the Atlanta delegation is going some fifty strong with the firm determination to bring the International Rotary convention for 1917 to this city. The visiting delegates who are here today from the nine cities named, have all agreed to lend their assistance.

CHICAGO ROTARIAN CONFIDENT ATLANTA WILL WIN MEETING

The Ansley hotel has received a telegram from Tom Phillips, prominent merchant of Chicago and a Rotarian, that he be reserved a room at the hostelry for the 1917 international convention of Rotary here. He is so confident that the next meeting of this association will be held here that he has asked the hotel to reserve rooms for himself and wife. The telegram leads the Atlanta club to hope that they will receive the support of Chicago in the fight for the next convention.

Wright, was merely taking a quiet way of getting her husband home to the Pryor hotel from the Hotel Courtland, where he had spent the night. The officer arrested the two. Mrs. Wright will face charges of pointing a pistol at another, while her husband will appear under disorderly conduct charges.

CLAUDE ASHLEY PAYS FEE

Payment Puts End to Report of Possible Withdrawal.

Councilman Claude L. Ashley, candidate for mayor in the primary August 24, made his official entry in the race yesterday by the payment of his entrance fee.

For some time past it has been rumored that he might combine forces with Alderman Armistead and get out of the contest. He said Thursday he was in the race to the end.

Alderman Armistead, also a candidate for mayor, paid his fee a day or two ago.

It is now reported that Alderman Charles Kelley, the third avowed candidate for mayor, who has not yet paid his entrance fee, will withdraw. It is said that he is uncertain about some support that was promised him from certain quarters. He is expected to make an official announcement in the next few days.

W. F. Buchanan, candidate for council from the ninth ward, paid his entrance fee Thursday.

CHICAGO STAPLES IN MIXED TRENDS

Broadening European Demand Continues Wheat on Upshoot—Corn Rises in Sympathy—Lack of Support Sets Back Provisions.

Chicago, July 13.—Wheat scored fresh gains in value today, owing to reports of a broadening European demand. The market, although unsettled at the close, was ⅛ to ⅝c net higher, with July at $1.10⅛ and September at $1.11¾@⅞. In corn the outcome was ¼@⅜ to ⅝c up, oats were down a shade to ¼@⅜ and provisions unchanged to 7½c lower.

Bulls in wheat made a confident start, influenced chiefly by dispatches from Liverpool admitting that enlargement of the call for shipments from America had been brought about as a result of misgivings concerning black rust danger in the Dakotas and Minnesota. Besides weather conditions in the states referred to were not of a reassuring kind and there was gossip that seaboard exporters appear to be liberal buyers of future deliveries here and at Winnipeg. However, no actual damage from black rust seemed as yet to have been suffered, and predictions of a big yield in Canada tended to cause a period of profit-taking sales by holders and to occasion something of a display of pressure from speculative bears.

Higher prices for new wheat at Kansas City helped to rally the market here as the session approached a close. Exporters were said to be paying 2c to 3c advance in Kansas, Omaha was said to have sold 100,000 bushels to the Seaboard and there were reports of good bids at the Gulf of Mexico. Mills in the southwest complained of slowness of sales by farmers.

Corn reflected the strength of wheat. Absence of rain acted also as an incentive to buy, and there were late advices that owing to lack of moisture the leaves in southern Illinois fields were beginning to curl.

Unwelcome high temperatures and active demand from the Seaboard tended to lift oats. Free selling by leading houses, though, was in the end more than offset.

Provisions gave way as a result of lack of support. Higher quotations on hogs appeared to be virtually ignored.

New York, July 13.—A moderate early advance was followed by an easier turn in the cotton market during today's late trading, with October selling off from 12.98 to 12.89 and closing at 12.91. The general list closed steady at an advance of 1 point to a decline of 2 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 4 to 5 points in response to relatively steady cables, and after some little irregularity, sold about 6 to 7 points net higher during the middle of the day. Offerings were restricted by uncertainty as to the probable course of the storm which was reported to be increasing in intensity in the Carribean sea, and prices were influenced by a comparatively light demand.

Trade interests were among the buyers, but the bulk of the support seemed to come from covering by shorts, with the trade evidently disposed to wait for further developments in connection with the tropical storm possibilities or for some change in the spot situation. Offerings increased slightly around 13.15 for December and 13.20 for January, however, and the market turned easier during the afternoon under scattering liquidation which seemed to come largely from Wall street sources.

The source of the selling suggested that it might have been influenced by the easier ruling of the stock market, but there were also rumors that a private crop report would be issued within a day or two, and would show an improvement in prospects since the end of last June. December contracts eased off to 13.05, while January sold back to 13.11 in active months generally working 2 to 4 points under last night's closing figures. Closing prices were within a point or two of the lowest in most instances. Liverpool buying of March contracts was a feature on the early advance, and in connection with the relatively firm cables, probably inspired a good part of the local covering.

Cotton spot quiet; middling uplands, 12.90; sales 100 bales.

New Orleans Sags 2 to 5 Points.

New Orleans, July 13.—After a small advance in the morning session today the cotton market fell off and closed at a net decline of 2 to 5 points, last prices being the lowest. Little business was done, features developing which restricted trading.

The market did better on the opening, cables being higher than expected, but no great pressure to buy was created. The most active months were 2 to 6 points up in the early trading and 4 to 6 up later in the morning. Continued rain in the eastern belt and the warning that a tropical storm was moving in the general direction of the Gulf of Mexico were the sustaining influences. After noon the trade took an unfavorable view of the rise in the Bank of England rate and also paid some attention to reports that a private crop reporting bureau was coming out with a bearish semi-monthly report on condition.

Reports of boll weevil and damage from excessive rains in the sections hit by the recent hurricane gave the market a steady undertone.

WORLD-WIDE UPSWING IN INTEREST RATES

Paris Likely to Follow New York and London Money Rental Advance.

London, July 13.—The advance in the bank rate from 5 to 6 per cent, came as no surprise to the money market, which realized the necessity of watching New York carefully and the rise here is purely a precautionary measure to protect exchange and retain balances which would otherwise seek employment in New York if the rates are not made sufficiently attractive.

The bank rate had been undisturbed since it was reduced to 5 per cent in August, 1914, and huge financial operations for this country as well as for the allies have been transacted on that basis.

View of New York Bankers.

New York, July 13.—International bankers were not unprepared for the advance in the British bank rate, all advices of the last fortnight from London pointing to fears of a stringency at that center.

In the opinion of bankers with important foreign commissions, the French discount rate is also likely to go higher. In fact the advance in the New York rate for call loans from 4½ per cent to 6 seemed to be partly in anticipation of the action taken by the governors of the Bank of England.

What effect, if any, an advance by the Bank of France may have on the French loan new pending in this market is problematical. Call money opened today at 4½ per cent against yesterday's final of 3½.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, July 13.—(Special.)—The volume of business transacted in this market today was very small and therefore prices fluctuated but little. Unfavorable crop reports from the east gulf states and the development of a disturbance in the Carribean sea influenced some buying, but as the tendency is to liquidate the demand was readily satisfied. Texas is commencing to need rain, while in Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia the weevil and shedding are complained of.

BOND, M'ENANY & CO.

New York, July 13.—(Special.)—The foreign market was better than due this morning, our market being 3 to 4 points higher than yesterday. The Bank of England rate was advanced 1 per cent and this had some influence on the Liverpool market, since it led to apprehension lest tight money might hinder the further replenishment of the Liverpool stock. The market here was very small in character, the principal feature being the general lack of outside buying and some further liquidation of cotton bought on reports of storm damage. There was some buying for Liverpool account, sufficient in volume to absorb the liquidation. The most recent disturbance in the gulf is still in the eastern Caribbean and its future course remains uncertain. The storm has exercised a strengthening influence upon the market which fears that it might work into the belt again.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, July 13.—(Special.)—The market is evidently awaiting fresh news and has no trend. It is almost impossible to predict the course of a market that depends on the weather to the extent that our present market does, and for this reason we continue to advise our friends to dispose of their long cotton at present prices as we believe that a fair reaction is quite possible before the upward trend is again resumed.

JOHNSTON, STORM & CO.

New York, July 13.—(Special.)—In less than three weeks we will have the final figures of the old crop and all the deductions that can follow. Many who have depended on these figures to show a distressingly small quantity of cotton will be disappointed in finding the largest supply ever known except last year. In the meanwhile interest is gradually centering on the new crop and the needs of the world for that new crop. Yesterday's weekly report and mail advices of the last two days give very pessimistic views of the after effects of the storm. Some even claiming as much as 50 to 60 per cent damage but for some reason this news brings very little buying power into the market. The reason it does not is that we are too close to the marketing of a new crop, not yet even partially sold. In normal times by the middle of July there has been sold by forward engagement 15 to 20 per cent of the coming crop, and it is the filling of this forward sold cotton that helps the market in October and December when the spot pressure is at its flood. This year perhaps the first million bales of the new crop will find ready buyers, but the next five or six million bales will probably be hard to move unless the war is over, unless European freight decline, unless the growing crop proves a poor one. The period of crop crisis as well as the recent offensive drive by the allies has prevented those who are bearish from taking the short side of the market as yet. If the war should end today the advance which would follow would be tremendous, but should peace come in October or November, any sharp advance would be met with such a flood of selling the actual cotton that the advance would be much more modest. Should peace be deferred until January it is doubtful if the Teutonic nations could get enough cotton to their mills the following six months to be considered serious competitors in the spinning of cotton. We do not think any accurate conclusions could be made in regard to the size of the growing crop. About the most we surely know of it at the present is the acreage.

Coffee.

New York, July 13.—Earlier Brazilian cables were followed by some scattering liquidation or local selling in the market for coffee futures here during today's earlier trading and after opening 5 to 6 points lower, active months sold about 5 to 8 points under last night's closing figures. There was no important pressure, however, and the market turned steadier late in the afternoon on reports that Santos offers were a shade firmer today on covering and a little trade buying. December sold up from 8.40 to 8.45 and March from 8.58 to 8.62, with the market closing at a net loss of 1 to 3 points. Sales, 26,250.

Closing prices were 5⅝c for Cubas cost and freight, equal to 640 for centrifugal and 5.63 for molasses.

In refined trading was more active with the country again in the market on a large scale. Withdrawals on old contract were good and further small sales were reported for export account at 6.35 to 6.40 f. o. b. New York. Prices remained unchanged with all refiners quoting on the basis of 7.65 for fine granulated.

Futures were lower under scattered selling by commission houses as well as some liquidation by Wall street interests. Closing prices were 5 to 6 points net lower. Sales, 7,900 tons.

SELLING PRESSURE JOLTS SECURITIES

Many Favorites Reach New Low Ground for the Year. Engliss Bank Rate Rises. Anglo-French Bonds Sag.

New York, July 13.—Selling of a broader and more promiscuous character than that of any recent period broke out afresh today, depressing prices of erstwhile favorites to lowest prices of the year and for a time causing unsettlement in standard shares. The decline gathered much of its momentum from the short interest, that faction extending its operations into new fields, incidentally adding to the impairment of stocks which already had suffered severe attrition.

Trading was on a large scale and wholly at the expense of values, except in the last hour, when short covering brought about a partial readjustment and moderate recoveries from lowest levels. The motor group was the chief center of disturbance, those issues recording extreme declines of 4 to 7 points, with 11 for General Motors, while stocks of accessories declined 2 to 4 points.

United States Industrial Alcohol struck the new low level of 97, a maximum loss of 32 points since last Saturday, but closed at 103. American Beet Sugar yielded only 4½ points under heavy pressure, but other mercurial issues of the same class lost more ground.

Munitions were subject to further discouraging reports regarding the loss or cancellation of foreign contracts, with recessions of 3 to 5 points in Crucible Steel, New York Airbrake American and Baldwin Locomotives, Westinghouse and Continental Can, while Bethlehem Steel at one time registered a decline of 23 points at 419⅞, but closed at 434½. United States Steel lost only a substantial fraction, notwithstanding its large turnover.

Among rails Reading, Canadian Pacific, St. Paul, Great Northern and Norfolk and Western were lower by 1 to 1½ points, with the same for shipping issues.

Coppers were only moderately affected, but Mexicans, particularly Petroleum, showed little resistance.

In its more significant aspects, the feature of the day was the advance in the Bank of England rate to 6 per cent, the first rise since August 8, 1914, when the discount was reduced to 5 per cent. The change was accompanied by the weekly statement, disclosing a further gold contraction of $4,000,000. Other developments in the international financial situation included a weakening of marks in the local exchange market and the receipt of additional British gold from Canada.

Free selling of Anglo-French 5's was again the noteworthy feature of the heavy bond market. Total sales of bonds, par value, $2,990,000.

United States bonds unchanged on call.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, July 13.—Business in cotton seed oil market was much quieter today, but it remained steady in absence of any selling pressure. Outside interest was light, partly due to the dullness in lard and very little export business was reported. Final prices were one point lower to five higher. Sales, 7,800 barrels.

NEW CANTALOUPES HERE

Party Given Thursday in State Entomologist's Office.

The department of entomology of Georgia has raised a new variety of cantaloupe at its experiment farm in Lowndes county. They are called Pollocks, and besides being earlier than most other varieties and of exceptional flavor, they have a shell which the department thinks will protect them against melon worms. Representative Webb, of Lowndes county, had a case of the new kind of melon ready cut for the members of his committee of the house when it adjourned Thursday afternoon. E. Lee Worsham, state entomologist, gave the party the use of his office.

SAVE 25% OF FUEL BY USING OROLO

GUARANTEED CARBON REMOVER.
CLEANS MOTORS. LESS VIBRATION AND WEAR. SAVES REPAIR BILLS. THE ONLY GUARANTEED CARBON REMOVER.

HOW OROLO REMOVES CARBON: OROLO GUARANTEED CARBON REMOVER is a liquid, which, when heated, is immediately converted into gases which completely destroy the asphaltum contained in carbon, leaving only a black powder or soot which is blown from the exhaust when the motor is started. It contains no acid, is not injurious to human flesh and can not possibly injure metal of any kind. This is demonstrated by the fact that it is put up in thin sheet iron tinned cans. It is inexpensive, and its use so simple that a child can successfully use it. The use of Orolo every 30 days or six weeks will keep a motor free from carbon and add at least 30% per cent to the life and efficiency of the motor. Purchase price cheerfully refunded if not entirely satisfactory.

RISING RIVERS MENACE EAST GEORGIA SECTION

Grazing Cattle and Hogs in Lowlands Are Threatened.

Savannah, Ga., July 13.—While farmers in southwest Georgia are rejoicing in the belief that early estimates of the storm and flood damage to crops were placed too high, others in Ware and nearby counties tonight are fearing disastrous floods in view of the threatening overflow of the Satilla and Altamaha river systems.

The Satilla already has broken over its banks in some places and crops in the lowlands in Ware county have been badly damaged. The river there is still rising and at Waltertown it has spread over an area a mile, where the water is from one to five feet deep, and many small bridges have been washed out. East of Waycross the river is said to be two miles wide.

The rapid rise of the Altamaha river today caused stock men in Liberty county to hurry into the adjoining lowlands and drive out their cattle and hogs, fearing they would be drowned if the river gets beyond its banks.

Trains Detoured.

Waycross, Ga., July 13.—(Special.)—High water between Quitman and Ousley tonight interrupted traffic on the Atlantic Coast line and trains are reaching Waycross by a detour via Albany.

Satilla River Bridges Impassable.

Waycross, Ga., July 13.—(Special.)—County Commissioner and Road Superintendent John Youmans tonight stated that three of the main Satilla river bridges, north and northwest of Waycross, were impassable on account of the steady rise in the river, with prospects of much damage to all approaches. At Watertown water is from one to five feet over nearly a mile of the county road and within a foot of the highest record known in five years.

Crops in the lowlands along the river have been badly damaged or ruined. The crest of the Satilla flood is expected Friday night or Saturday. East of the city the river has spread to a width of from one to two miles in many places. Today's rain was not heavy enough to have much effect on the river. Smaller bridges over branches and creeks, near the Satilla, are all classed as dangerous by Mr. Youmans, who is out tonight with regular repair gangs.

Flood Damage in Butts.

Jackson, Ga., July 13.—(Special.)—The recent unprecedented rains have done heavy damage to farmers throughout Butts county. Farmers living along the Ocmulgee river and in the neighborhood of the Central Georgia Power company's immense reservoir, which backs water for twenty miles, had their crops covered in water and the damage will be hard to estimate. The Ocmulgee river was higher at the power plant than it had been since the dam was built, and water poured over the dam about six to eight feet. Island Shoals bridge, between Henry and Newton counties, was washed away. At Indian Springs the springs were completely immersed in water for two days and it was impossible to get any water to drink there.

Negro Drowns in River Back-Water.

Columbus, Ga., July 13.—(Special.)—News was received here late Wednesday night of the drowning of Henry Mitchell, a negro employed on the Humber-Owsley plantation, four and a half miles south of Columbus, which occurred Tuesday morning. The negro was drowned in flood water of the Chattahoochee river at a point nearly half a mile from the channel of the stream. He was engaged, with several companions, in swimming in an open field at the time and it is believed he was seized with cramps. The remains were taken from ten feet of water and buried on the plantation.

M., D. & S. Ry. Damages Repaired.

The Macon, Dublin and Savannah railway has repaired its lines where damage was done by the recent high water, and resumed regular business from Savannah to Jacksonville and intermediate points. The yards in Macon were overflowed and badly damaged, but E. G. Tucker, commercial agent for the road, states that they are now in good condition, and traffic is again normal.

Hiking 475 miles from Washington to get a job, a man carried his bed with him in a cart. He got the job in Bridgeport, Conn.

AMUSEMENTS

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

Insurance against damage to approximately $4,000 worth of "glad rags" is one of the things it has cost George H. Hickman this week. The act is Joseph E. Howard's own song review and in this offering Miss Ethelyn Clark wears nine or ten of about the most stunning gowns that have ever been displayed here.

Other stellar Keith acts of this week include Vittorio and Georgette, the "upside-down boys;" Fred Hallen and Molly Fuller in "The Corridor of Time;" Klass and Berne, violinist and accordion player; Miss Fremont Benton and company in the comedy sketch, "Handkerchief No. 15;" Burley and Burley, comedians and dancers, and Miss Bethnia in the futuristic color play, "The Edge of the World."

"The Law Decides."

(At the Criterion.)

Today at the Criterion theater there will be shown, in addition to that dramatic triumph, "The Law Decides," the pictures of the arrival of the Deutschland, the German submarine, at Baltimore, will be shown. This is a feature of unusual merit. It will be the first showing of the picture in Georgia.

In "The Law Decides," Harry T. Morey and Dorothy Kelly have the principal assignments. It is a Vitagraph Blue Ribbon production in seven parts.

Henry Walthall.

(At the Georgian.)

"The Misleading Lady," Essanay's five-act photo play, with Henry Walthall and Edna Mayo in the leading parts, will be the attraction at the Georgian theater today. The story tells of a woman's contempt of a man and his reversion to type in the wooing of her. It will be found dear to lovers of lovers, because it portrays a wooing that scorns conventions.

Henry B. Walthall and Edna Mayo cleave true to the pith of the story. There is no digression. It is a rough wooing, roughly wrought, a bronze piece of art in which delicate pictures are made with a massive hammer, and in the conclusion, there is the joy that always comes to one at the sight of a successful love affair.

"The Grip of Evil."

(At the Alpha.)

Pathe's newest big serial, the story of which will be published in The Constitution next Sunday, and the first chapter shown at the Alpha theater Tuesday, July 18, has been described as a master plot in fourteen chapters, showing the real side of humanity. It deals with a subject so powerful and so true to life that many great men have taken the time and trouble to write upon the same subject and express their views upon the questions involved.

The picture deals with the adventures of John Burton, an American laborer, who falls heir to an English title. In trying to find the answer to the question, "Is all humanity in the grip of evil?"

Jackie Saunders and Roland Bottomley, the leads in "Grip of Evil," are screen celebrities of high order, and their work will bring greater praise than they have had in the past.

"The Deserter."

(At the Vaudette.)

A forceful, simple story, with artistic big scenes is "The Deserter," with Charles Ray, the star, at the Vaudette theater today and Saturday; together with this picture will be a very amusing comedy, "The Mystery of the Leaping Fish," with Douglas Fairbanks and Bessie Love making heaps of fun in the genuine manner they know so well, without the use of slap stick comedy.

"The Deserter" is a western story, with an interesting plot. By the use of some very artistic bits and masterful big scenes, such as dance hall brawls and Indian fights, it will be received and pronounced an offering as particularly big, on account of the way in which the subject is handled.

Charles May as a young officer, who is a deserter, gives a splendid characterization of his part, and registers all his points with much force. Taken all together, it is one of the best western pictures of the stirring old-time style that has been presented here this season.

"Where Are My Children?"

(At the Piedmont.)

"Where Are My Children?" is founded on an extremely delicate subject, but is handled with such carefulness that it is a production that any man might bring his wife or daughter to see. It's clean from start to finish. There is not an offensive feature in the entire film.

Crowds have crammed the Piedmont since the opening Monday. The acting in the film has been highly praised by the Atlanta movie-goers. Tyrone Power, famous for his work on the legitimate stage in "The Servant in the House," plays the leading role.

"The Grasp of Greed."

(At the Strand.)

Beautiful Louise Lovely makes her regular appearance as a star in Bluebird Photoplays at the Strand theater today, appearing as the heroine of a remarkable play, based on one of the works of H. Rider Haggard, entitled "The Grasp of Greed." Those who have read "John Meeson's Will" can recall the remarkable circumstances under which a lawful document was recorded, and was held by the courts to be a valid testament of a miserly old publisher's dying legacy. This unusual incident is vividly brought forward as the approach to climax in an interesting photoplay, and there are preceding episodes of sensational and exciting nature that weave themselves around one of the prettiest love stories ever photographed.

If you drive a "Ford" You need this Transformer

Any man who has held the "reins" over a Ford car knows the thrills that come from joy-riding over the highways while the sun is shining.

But—the minute the lights are snapped on at night those thrills are lessened by the uncertain manner in which the headlights perform.

If you are in high gear and running at low speed your lights are very dim and unsatisfactory. If you are speeding, then the lights are speeding, too—intensely brilliant. Every speed regulation either subdues or increases the light.

The Waynlite Transformer corrects this. It evens up the current so that regardless of the gear you are in, or the speed you are making, the lighting is always the same.

Don't you think that $3.50 is a mighty little price to pay for so much real satisfaction?

Three-fifty is the price of the Waynlite—and we are the distributors.

DIEZ'S ARREST REPORTED

Charged With Being Member of Harrison Gang.

Word was received in Atlanta Thursday of the arrest of a man giving his name as Joseph C. Mayers, in Denver, Colo., who is thought by police and federal agents of that city to be W. Edward Diez, member of the so-called Harrison gang, members of which are wanted for the robbery of a train at Central Station, W. Va., over a year ago.

If the man now in custody in Denver is Edward Diez, his home is in Atlanta, and he is not only wanted by police and federal men of this city, but an order for his arrest has been on file with police and government officials since last winter.

Members of the Harrison gang were arrested in Atlanta several months ago and part of a consignment of $100,000 worth of unsigned currency, said to have been stolen from the Baltimore and Ohio train, found here.

The dispatch from Denver stated that police said Diez attempted to throw away $1,000 worth of unsigned notes as they went to arrest him. The money, after being turned over to federal agents, was pronounced part of the currency stolen in the Central robbery.

An effort was made Thursday to find relatives of Diez in Atlanta, but neither his former home here or any relations could be located.
